NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 79).

INDIA—WEST COAST.

COAST OF SIND.

INDUS RIVER.

Entrance and approach to Kurrachee Harbour.

The following revision of a notification on the authority of the Port Officer of Kurrachee is published for general information:—

LIGHTS.—The entrance to the port is marked by two lights called respectively the Manora point and Breakwater. The Manora point light, adjoining the S. W. bastion of Manora fort, West point of entrance, is a round stone tower painted white; it exhibits a dioptric revolving white light of the first order, showing a bright flash every two minutes. The light, which is 150 feet above the level of the sea, is visible in clear weather 20 miles in every direction seaward, and was first lighted in its present position in the year 1848, but was subsequently altered to a revolving light in 1877; latitude $24^{\circ} 47' 21''$ N., longitude $66^{\circ} 58' 15''$ E. The Breakwater light is a red fixed light, and is exhibited at the extreme end of the breakwater to facilitate the entry of steam-ships into the port at night; it is 46 feet above high-water level, and is visible about 3 miles.

KURRACHEE HARBOUR.—In supersession of former Notice No. 18, issued by the Superintendent, Marine Survey of India, Calcutta, on the 30th November 1876, on the directions for entering and leaving the Port of Kurrachee, the following, with reference to draught of vessels, received the sanction of the Commissioner of Sind on the 29th September 1886:—

TIDES.—It is high water full and change at Manora point light-house at 10h. 30m.; the average rise and fall of springs is 9 feet 6 inches, and neaps 5 to 6 feet.

DEPTH OF WATER IN ENTRANCE CHANNEL.—During spring tides, there will be found a depth of 29 feet 6 inches, and in neaps 25 to 26 feet at high water.

DRAUGHT OF VESSELS.—Vessels with a draught not exceeding 22 feet 6 inches can enter or leave the port without difficulty or risk during all seasons of the year; in the South-west Monsoon the maximum draught allowed is 23 feet; but for loading during springs and fine weather this might be increased at the discretion of the Marine authorities to 23 feet 6 inches. In the fair season, the maximum draught allowed is 24 feet 6 inches, but vessels can load to a greater draught outside the harbour with safety.

TIME OF TIDE FOR ENTERING PORT.—Sailing-ships should enter the port on the ebb-tide; steam-vessels can enter either flood or ebb at the pilot's discretion; but masters of vessels should not, on any account, attempt to enter the harbour without a pilot.

HARBOUR IMPROVEMENTS.—Among the extensive works executed, a breakwater has been built running out from Manora Point in a S. by E. direction to a distance of 1,500 feet into 5 fathoms of water. This breakwater affords a complete shelter to the Entrance Channel during the South-west Monsoon; a channel has been opened through the bar with a depth of 20 feet at low-water spring tides, which is about 500 feet in breadth.

BUOYS.—The entrance to the harbour is marked by buoys one on each side of the channel.

Note.—A mail steamer arriving off the port during the night should burn two blue lights in quick succession when in the fair season a pilot will at once board; but during the monsoon she must keep off the port until daylight.

APPROACHES TO THE PORT.—General directions.—The coast of Sind should be approached with great caution; too much attention cannot be paid to the lead, more especially in passing the banks off the river mouths of the Indus, which are extending considerably to seaward. From a survey in March 1877 by Captain A. W. Stiffe, Indian Marine (Port Officer of Calcutta), the edge of the shoal water was $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles to seaward of the former position. It was then in latitude $24^{\circ} 04' 20''$ N., longitude $67^{\circ} 11' 50''$ E. By night a vessel should give the banks a berth of 15 to 20 miles, and if after passing the "Swatch" she does not get less than 18 to 20 fathoms, she may haul to the northward, not coming into less than 15 fathoms until the Kurrachee revolving light is seen. By day the breakers on the edge of the banks are a good guide, unless the water is quite smooth; but it is hardly possible for a vessel to run ashore by day, on account of the marked discoloration of the water, which extends some distance outside the banks. The tides during the springs are strong, the flood sets to the S.-E. and the ebb to the N.-W. From February to the end of the monsoon a strong south-easterly current may be expected running from 15 to 45 miles a day. During the south-west monsoon, vessels should make Rûs Muari or Cape Monze, which is 18 miles W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. from the Manora Point light-house, and keep to windward of the port if the weather is thick, or if the tide does not suit for entering the harbour. Allowance must also be made for a strong set to the S.-E. which prevails more or less during the south-west monsoon. Care must be taken not to bring Manora Point to the southward of E. by N., or go under 15 fathoms near Cape Monze. Masters of vessels should endeavour to make the port at daylight, and can with safety approach into 8 fathoms to about 2 miles distance from the light-house keeping it on any bearing from N. E. to N. N. E. and heaving to for a pilot.

ANCHORAGE IN THE ROADS.—From June to the middle of September vessels should on no account anchor, but stand off and on, keeping the principal light bearing from N. N. E. to N. E., 1 to 2 miles distance until boarded by a pilot or directed by signal. From September to the end of March, the anchorage is with the light-house bearing N. by E. to N. N. E., distant one mile, in 7 fathoms of water; and in April and May with the light-house bearing N. N. E. to N. E., half a mile distant in 8 fathoms of water.

By direction of the Government of Bengal,

ARTHUR W. STIFFE, Captain, I.M.,
Port Officer of Calcutta.

NOTIFICATION.

The 31st December 1886.—It is hereby notified for general information that in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 4 of Act III (B.C.) of 1879 (entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah), the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to approve of the following draft of a revised set of rules framed by the Commissioners for the inspection of steam-boilers, unless good reasons are shown to the contrary within one month of the publication of this notification.

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules under Section 4, Act III (B.C.) of 1879, entitled an Act to provide for the Periodical Inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah.

I.—The office of the Commissioners for the Inspection of Boilers shall be attached to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed to consist of the Commissioner of Police, or the Deputy Commissioner of Police or both, and not less than three other Commissioners to be appointed by Government from time to time; and it shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the transaction of business, and one of the Commissioners shall be appointed President.

III.—It shall be the duty of the Commissioners at the monthly meetings—

(1) To examine the diaries of the Inspector and Assistant Inspectors, and pass such orders thereon as may seem necessary.

(2) To revoke or suspend any certificates under section 8.

(3) To hear any appeals preferred by owners of boilers under section 9.

(4) To keep a record of their proceedings in such form as may seem advisable, and submit a copy of the same to the Secretary to Government.

(5) To submit an annual budget to Government, showing the estimates, receipts, and disbursements of the Commission for the ensuing year.

(6) To submit an annual report reviewing the work done by the Boiler establishment during the year.

(7) To prescribe the registers and accounts which are to be kept up by the Secretary and office.

(8) To cause a statement of demands, collections, and outstandings to be prepared by the Secretary, and to scrutinise the same.

(9) To check the statement of demands, comparing the arrear demand with the statement of outstandings for the previous month, and the current demand with a statement of work done, to be prepared by the Secretary from the diaries of the Inspectors.

(10) To compare the statement of collections with the cash-book, and the cash-book with the Bank-book.

(11) To pass such orders as they may think fit for realising or otherwise disposing of the outstandings.

IV.—The Commissioners shall from time to time prepare and submit for the sanction of Government a schedule of the establishment and salaries they consider necessary for the purposes of this Act.

V.—After sanction of such schedule, the Commissioners shall have the power to appoint the Inspector, Assistant Inspectors and clerks, &c., and they shall also have power to suspend or remove such officers. The Inspector shall also be Secretary to the Commission, and he shall attend the office and keep such registers and accounts as the Commission may direct under rule III.

VI.—The Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police, which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. He shall see that all notices are duly served, and that all fees are duly brought to account and paid into the Bank. He shall keep in his own custody all forms of certificates, declarations, check receipts, and vouchers. He shall himself verify the balance at credit, shown in the accounts of the Commissioners' office, with the balance in the Bank. He shall refer all matters of importance for the orders of the President.

VII.—Notices under section 6, requiring owners or persons in charge of boilers to make alterations or additions, shall only be given by the Inspector, and when any such notice is given, a copy of the notice served shall at the same time be forwarded by him to each member of the Boiler Commission. When an appeal is heard by the Commission, notice shall be given to the appellant, and any representation that may be made by him will be heard in the presence of the Inspector. The Inspector will also be heard, and local inspection made if necessary. The decision of the Commission will be given in writing, and such decision shall be final.

VIII.—When an inspection under the Act is completed, the Inspector making it shall forthwith, if satisfied that he can with propriety do so, give the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler inspected a declaration in the form appended hereto.

IX.—The owner, manager or agent to whom a declaration is given under the last foregoing section shall, within fourteen days after the date of the receipt thereof, send the declaration, together with the amount of the fee named at foot thereof, to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

If he fails to do so, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding five rupees for every day beyond that period, and the owner, manager or agent shall pay the sum so forfeited on the delivery of the certificate of inspection in addition to the fee payable for the certificate.

X.—Upon receipt of the declaration in the office of the Commissioner of Police, the Secretary shall prepare a certificate in the form prescribed by the Act. Such certificate shall be signed by the Secretary and the Commissioner of Police or Deputy Commissioner of Police, and shall be delivered to the owner, manager or agent of the steam boilers inspected, on his paying the fees and other sums (if any) payable under rule IX on delivery of a certificate.

Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

XII.—For every certificate of inspection granted under this Act, the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler inspected shall pay to the Commissioner of Police a fee calculated on the horse-power of the steam boiler according to the scale laid down in rule XVII; and such additional fee, in respect of the expense (if any) of the journey of the Inspector to the place where the boiler is situated, as is prescribed in rule XVIII.

XIII.—A certificate granted under this Act shall not be in force—

(1) After the expiration of one year from the date thereof, or

(2) After the expiration of the period, if less than one year, for which the boiler and machinery have been stated in the certificate to be sufficient, or

(3) After notice has been given by the Commissioners to the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler to which the certificate relates that they have cancelled or suspended it.

XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—

(a)—A thorough examination once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Inspector or Assistant Inspector in person, for which purpose the boilers must be empty, cool, and clean, and flues swept; and, if required by the Inspector, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler in every part.

(b)—An ordinary inspection made at any time when the Inspector has reason to believe the boiler is being improperly worked or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 17th December, 1886:—

No. 27 OF 1886.

A Bill to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. In the definition of "Officer in charge of a Police-station" in section 4, clause (o), of the said Code there shall be substituted for the word "therefrom" the words "from the station-house", and for the words "present at the Police-station" the words "present at the station-house".

2. In section 312 of the said Code the word "four" shall be substituted for the word "two".

The primary object of this Bill is to amend section 312 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882, the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and Judges of the High Court at Fort William having represented that, as the law at present stands, owing to the numerous absences from Calcutta of gentlemen whose names are on the special jury list, and to the necessity of excusing special jurors from attendance on sufficient grounds, it is found necessary to summon the same gentlemen very frequently, to their manifest inconvenience and to serious interference with their business avocations.

2. A Bill to amend the Code having thus become necessary, the opportunity has been taken to cure a defect which has been noticed by the Government of Bombay in the definition of the expression "Officer in charge of a Police-station."

ANDREW R. SCOBLE.

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

CALCUTTA PORT TRUST.

THE HON. MR. MACAULAY, in moving for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870, said: I may at once explain to the Council that the measure which I propose to introduce will be very limited in its scope. No doubt it would have been desirable to have had an Act which would have been a consolidating as well as an amending measure. The original Act of 1870, entitled an Act to appoint Commissioners for making improvements in the Port of Calcutta, has already been amended no less than five times by Bengal Acts VII of 1871, III of 1872, IV of 1880, I of 1881, and II of 1883. At the same time, with the Calcutta Municipal Bill, on which, as our colleagues are aware, a Select Committee of several of us are constantly engaged, with the Chittagong Port Trust Bill, which I had the honour to introduce at the last meeting, and with the other measures before us, I think we shall be fully occupied this session without embarking in addition upon a large measure of consolidation. The scope of this Bill will therefore be confined to the amendment of the constitution of the Calcutta Port Trust. The details will be explained hereafter at the proper time when I come to lay the Bill before the Council. Meanwhile, I may say that the object is to recognise and affirm the elective principle in the constitution of that body. It need hardly be said that such a body as the Port Commissioners cannot be really useful and effective unless they are fairly representative of the interests which are concerned in the good management of the Port; and therefore the Government has always endeavoured to secure a substantial representation of commerce and trade, and the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Trades' Association have been freely appointed to the Board. The next step naturally was the recognition of the fact that those who possess those interests are best qualified to select persons to represent them; and on this principle you, Sir, as the head of the Government, have in practice allowed the Chamber of Commerce and the Trades' Association to nominate successors to retiring Commissioners who were representative of those bodies. I think it is desirable, however—and this has been decided by the Government—that this privilege of election should be confirmed by law to the institutions which represent commerce and trade; and without going further into details at this stage, I may venture to express a hope that the Council will also be able to see its way to giving some representation to general local interests. The details, as I have said, will be for future consideration, and with these observations, I ask you, Sir, to put to the Council the motion which stands against my name.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 8th January 1887.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h. 10h. 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CALCUTTA, the 4th January 1887.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 31st OF DECEMBER 1886.

THE meteorology of the past week calls for the briefest notice. The barometer was above its average height over the province generally, and in the Bay. The winds and temperature were affected by the weather conditions in Upper India, where a cold-weather disturbance, such as frequently occurs during Christmas week, gave moderate rain in that area, and snow to the Western Himalayas. The winds were hence more or less unsteady in Bengal during the week, and the temperature during the period of disturbance in Upper India considerably above the average. When it passed away a rapid decline of temperature followed on the 30th and 31st in Bengal. This was chiefly shown in the night temperature, which fell from 8° to 12° in Behar. The air was also not so dry as usual. The westerly element in the northerly winds common at this period was replaced at many stations by a feeble easterly component.

The mean pressure of the week was '03" in excess in Orissa, '02" in South-West Bengal, '04" in East and Central Bengal, North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur. There appears to be a slight relative deficiency of pressure in Central and Southern Behar, as represented by the stations of Gya and Patna, where the mean pressure of the week was only '01" above the average.

Temperature was considerably above the average until the 30th, when a sudden decrease occurred. The mean temperature of the week is hence considerably above the average, the excess increasing from the seaboard into the interior. The mean temperature of the week was 1½° above the normal in Orissa, 2° in East Bengal and North Behar, 3° in South-West Bengal, and 4° in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The following table, giving data for eight representative stations, shows that the excess of temperature was, as is usual in the cold weather, most marked in the night or minimum temperature:—

MEMORANDUM.

THE following summary of results has been deduced from the annexed table exhibiting the vital statistics of the principal Municipalities in Bengal for the week ending 11th December 1886 :—

1. That the birth-rate of these Municipalities stood at 26·8 per 1,000 of population, against the same rate in the preceding week ending 4th December, and the death-rate at 44·7 per 1,000 as opposed to 46·2 per 1,000, indicating a falling off in the registration of the events.

2. That births and deaths were returned at the highest rates from the following Municipalities:—

Births.			Deaths.
		Ratio per mille.			Ratio per mille.
Naraingunge	70·4	Naraingunge	111·8

			Mozufferpore	37·7
			Burdwan	36·6
			Midnapore	35·6
			Santipore	35·1
			Puri	33·6

3. That the mortality from the principal diseases contrasted with the mortality from the same causes in the preceding week stands as follows :—

			Ratio per mille during the weeks ending—
			11th December 1886.	4th December 1886.
Cholera	11·7	12·9
Small-pox	·03	...
Fever	16·6	16·5
Bowel-complaints	6·3	6·7

indicating, chiefly, that the severity of cholera had on the whole declined markedly.

4. That while only one town (Purneah) exhibited fatal results from small-pox, and that not to a noticeable extent, and injury shewed no conspicuous fatality anywhere, the under-mentioned Municipalities returned the highest death-rates from cholera, fever, bowel-complaints and the maladies classed under the head of " Other causes " :—

Cholera.		Fever.		Bowel-complaints.		Other causes.

Durbhanga ...	5·5

It is observable that cholera prevailed with marked severity in the Naraingunge, Ranaghat and Bali towns, and fever in the Beauleah and Hughli towns.

5. That the death-rates in relation to Sex, Class and Age, stood as noted below :—

Special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number as remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

- I.—The Commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft, arriving from Bombay shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.
- II.—Such Commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication, either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.
- III.—Immediately on arrival the Commander shall cause the letter R of the Commercial signal Code to be hoisted, and shall keep the said flag flying during his stay in port or until authorized by the Health Officer to haul it down. If communication with the shore is not desired, the vessel shall anchor at such place as may be pointed out by the Port authorities, having regard to the season of the year. If communication with the shore is desired, the Health Officer shall go alongside the vessel, and, after all necessary enquiries, shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival, or for the shorter period prescribed in Rule IV, and undergo disinfection, which should apply as well to crew, passengers, effects and susceptible goods.
- IV.—If the Health Officer of the Port has sufficient evidence that no cases of a suspicious nature have taken place on board during the voyage, and if the vessel is besides in good hygienic condition, the duration of the quarantine will be diminished according to the following scale:—

After eight days of voyage	six days of quarantine.

Do. ten ditto	four ditto
Do. eleven ditto	three ditto
Do. twelve ditto	two ditto
Do. thirteen ditto and upwards	twenty-four hours of quarantine.
- V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid, any case or cases of cholera should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of seven days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rule III.
- VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid, the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.
- VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.
- VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine, to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.
- IX.—All vessels arriving at Aden and Perim, which may have communicated with vessels coming from Bombay, shall be subjected to the same quarantine as vessels arriving at Aden and Perim from that port.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 79).

INDIA—WEST COAST.

COAST OF SIND.

INDUS RIVER.

Entrance and approach to Kurrachee Harbour.

The following revision of a notification on the authority of the Port Officer of Kurrachee is published for general information:—

LIGHTS.—The entrance to the port is marked by two lights called respectively the Manora point and Breakwater. The Manora point light, adjoining the S. W. bastion of Manora fort, West point of entrance, is a round stone tower painted white; it exhibits a dioptric revolving white light of the first order, showing a bright flash every two minutes. The light, which is 150 feet above the level of the sea, is visible in clear weather 20 miles in every direction seaward, and was first lighted in its present position in the year 1848, but was subsequently altered to a revolving light in 1877; latitude $24^{\circ} 47' 21''$ N., longitude $66^{\circ} 58' 15''$ E. The Breakwater light is a red fixed light, and is exhibited at the extreme end of the breakwater to facilitate the entry of steam-ships into the port at night; it is 46 feet above high-water level, and is visible about 3 miles.

KURRACHEE HARBOUR.—In supersession of former Notice No. 18, issued by the Superintendent, Marine Survey of India, Calcutta, on the 30th November 1876, on the directions for entering and leaving the Port of Kurrachee, the following, with reference to draught of vessels, received the sanction of the Commissioner of Sind on the 29th September 1886:—

TIDES.—It is high water full and change at Manora point light-house at 10h. 30m.; the average rise and fall of springs is 9 feet 6 inches, and neaps 5 to 6 feet.

DEPTH OF WATER IN ENTRANCE CHANNEL.—During spring tides, there will be found a depth of 29 feet 6 inches, and in neaps 25 to 26 feet at high water.

DRAUGHT OF VESSELS.—Vessels with a draught not exceeding 22 feet 6 inches can enter or leave the port without difficulty or risk during all seasons of the year; in the South-west Monsoon the maximum draught allowed is 23 feet; but for loading during spring and fine weather this might be increased at the discretion of the Marine authorities to 23 feet 6 inches. In the fair season, the maximum draught allowed is 24 feet 6 inches, but vessels can load to a greater draught outside the harbour with safety.

TIME OF TIDE FOR ENTERING PORT.—Sailing-ships should enter the port on the ebb-tide; steam-vessels can enter either flood or ebb at the pilot's discretion; but masters of vessels should not, on any account, attempt to enter the harbour without a pilot.

HARBOUR IMPROVEMENTS.—Among the extensive works executed, a breakwater has been built running out from Manora Point in a S. by E. direction to a distance of 1,500 feet into 5 fathoms of water. This breakwater affords a complete shelter to the Entrance Channel during the South-west Monsoon; a channel has been opened through the bar with a depth of 20 feet at low-water spring tides, which is about 500 feet in breadth.

BUOYS.—The entrance to the harbour is marked by buoys one on each side of the channel.

Note.—A mail steamer arriving off the port during the night should burn two blue lights in quick succession when in the fair season a pilot will at once board; but during the monsoon she must keep off the port until daylight.

APPROACHES TO THE PORT.—General directions—The coast of Sind should be approached with great caution; too much attention cannot be paid to the lead, more especially in passing the banks off the river mouths of the Indus, which are extending considerably to seaward. From a survey in March 1877 by Captain A. W. Stiffe, Indian Marine (Port Officer of Calcutta), the edge of the shoal water was $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles to seaward of the former position. It was then in latitude $24^{\circ} 04' 20''$ N., longitude $67^{\circ} 11' 50''$ E. By night a vessel should give the banks a berth of 15 to 20 miles, and if after passing the "Swatch" she does not get less than 18 to 20 fathoms, she may haul to the northward, not coming into less than 15 fathoms until the Kurrachee revolving light is seen. By day the breakers on the edge of the banks are a good guide, unless the water is quite smooth; but it is hardly possible for a vessel to run ashore by day, on account of the marked discoloration of the water, which extends some distance outside the banks. The tides during the springs are strong, the flood sets to the S.-E. and the ebb to the N.-W. From February to the end of the monsoon a strong south-easterly current may be expected running from 15 to 45 miles a day. During the south-west monsoon, vessels should make Rás Muari or Cape Monze, which is 18 miles W. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. from the Manora Point light-house, and keep to windward of the port if the weather is thick, or if the tide does not suit for entering the harbour. Allowance must also be made for a strong set to the S.-E. which prevails more or less during the south-west monsoon. Care must be taken not to bring Manora Point to the southward of E. by N., or go under 15 fathoms near Cape Monze. Masters of vessels should endeavour to make the port at daylight, and can with safety approach into 8 fathoms to about 2 miles distance from the light-house keeping it on any bearing from N. E. to N. N. E. and heaving to for a pilot.

ANCHORAGE IN THE ROADS.—From June to the middle of September vessels should on no account anchor, but stand off and on, keeping the principal light bearing from N. N. E. to N. E., 1 to 2 miles distance until boarded by a pilot or directed by signal. From September to the end of March, the anchorage is with the light-house bearing N. by E. to N. N. E., distant one mile, in 7 fathoms of water; and in April and May with the light-house bearing N. N. E. to N. E., half a mile distant in 8 fathoms of water.

(2) If they apply on different days for leave to file specifications of such inventions as aforesaid, the applicant who applied on the first of the different days shall be deemed to have a preferential claim to an order authorising the filing of his specification.

Act XV,
9 s. 4.]

8. (1) If within six months from the date of an order under section 6, sub-section (1), or within such further time, not exceeding three months, as the Governor General in Council, in his discre-

12. XV,
s. 35.]

13. (1) Another book, to be called the address-book, shall be kept in the office of the Secretary wherein any person filing a specification under this Part, or any person in whom an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part, or any share or interest therein, may become vested, may from time to time cause to be stated some place in British India where notice of any rule or proceeding relating to the exclusive privilege may be served on him.

(2) A reference to each entry in the address-book shall be made in the register of inventions in the margin of the entry of the specification in that register.

XV,
s. 12.]

14. (1) An entry in the register of inventions or address-book shall, for the purposes of the law of evidence for the time being in force, be deemed to be a public document, and the register and book, or copies thereof, shall be open to the inspection of any person at all reasonable times at the office of the Secretary.

47 Vic.,
s. 114.]

(2) The books kept under section 11 and section 35 of Act No. XV of 1859 (an Act for granting exclusive Privileges to Inventors) shall be deemed to be parts of the register of inventions and address-book respectively.

15. (1) The inventor of a new manufacture [Act XV, 1859, s. 4, and 46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, s. 25.] may, at any time not more than one year and not less than six months before the time limited for the expiration of an exclusive privilege acquired under section 8, apply to the Governor General in Council for an extension of the privilege for a further term.

(2) When an application is made under sub-section (1), the Governor General in Council may, if he thinks fit, refer it to a High Court for report.

(3) The Court to which the petition is referred shall, in making its report, have regard to the nature and merits of the invention in relation to the public, to the profits made by the inventor as such, and to all the circumstances of the case.

(4) The procedure on the reference shall be such as the Court thinks fit.

(5) If the Governor General in Council is of opinion, or, where a reference has been made under sub-section (2), if the Court reports, that the inventor has been inadequately remunerated by his exclusive privilege, the Governor General in Council may, on payment of the fee prescribed in that behalf in the fourth schedule, make an order extending the term of the privilege for a further term not exceeding seven or, in exceptional cases, fourteen years from the expiration of the first term of fourteen years.

16. An order under section 6, sub-section (1), [Act XV, 1859, s. 5.] authorizing the filing of a specification, or under section 15, sub-section (5), extending the term of an exclusive privilege, may be made subject to such conditions as the Governor General in Council thinks expedient.

17. (1) Subject to any conditions imposed [46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, s. 27.] under the last foregoing section—

(a) with respect to the filing, by a person employed in the service of Her Majesty in India, of the specification of a manufacture invented by him in the course of his employment, or

(b) with respect to the extension, in favour of any person, of the term of an exclusive privilege, an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part shall have to all intents the like effect as against Her Majesty as it has against a subject.

(2) But the officers or authorities administering any department of the service of Her Majesty may, by themselves, their agents, contractors or others, at any time after the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification of an invention, use the invention for the services of the Government on terms to be before or after the use thereof agreed on, with the approval of the Governor General in Council, between those officers or authorities and the inventor, or, in default of such agreement, on such terms as may be settled by the Governor General in Council.

V, 14.] 18. (1) If, after the filing of the specification, the applicant has reason to believe that through mis-amended specification, take or inadvertence he has erroneously made any mis-statement in his application or specification, or included therein something which at the date of the delivery or receipt of his application was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or that the specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, he may apply to the Governor General in Council for leave to file a memorandum pointing out the error, defect or insufficiency, and disclaiming any part of the alleged invention, or, in case of any defect or insufficiency of the specification, asking for leave to file an amended specification.

(2) The application must be in writing signed by the applicant, and must state how the error, defect or insufficiency occurred and that it was not fraudulently intended.

(3) Upon the application the Governor General in Council may make an order allowing the memorandum or amended specification to be filed.

(4) The provisions of sections 11, 12 and 14 with respect to specifications shall be applicable to the applications, orders, memoranda and amended specifications referred to in this section.

14.] 19. An amended specification filed under the last foregoing section shall, except as to any suit or proceeding relating to the exclusive privilege which may be pending at the time of the filing of the amended specification, have the same effect as if it had been the specification first filed:

Provided that nothing in an amended specification shall be construed to extend or enlarge an exclusive privilege before acquired.

5.] 20. A person shall not be entitled to an exclusive privilege under this Part—

- (a) if the invention is of no utility, or
- (b) if the invention, at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, was not a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or
- (c) if the applicant is not the inventor thereof, or
- (d) if the specification filed or the amended specification, if any, does not particularly describe and ascertain the nature of the invention and in what manner it is to be performed, or

(e) if the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention or the original or any amended specification contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement.

21. An invention shall be deemed a new invention within the meaning of this Part if it has not, before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, been publicly used in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom, or been made publicly known in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom by means of a written publication. [Act XV, 1859, s. 19.]

22. The public use or knowledge of an invention before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file a specification shall not be deemed a public use or knowledge within the meaning of this Part if the knowledge has been obtained surreptitiously or in fraud of the inventor or has been communicated to the public in fraud of the inventor or in breach of confidence: [Act XV, 1859, s. 19.]

Provided that the inventor has not acquiesced in the public use of his invention, and that, within six months after the commencement of that use, he applies for leave to file a specification.

23. The use of an invention in public by the inventor thereof, or by his servants or agents, or by any other person by his license in writing, for a period not exceeding one year immediately preceding the date of the delivery or receipt of his application for leave to file a specification, shall not be deemed a public use thereof within the meaning of this Part. [Act XV, 1859, s. 19.]

24. If an inventor who has obtained a patent for his invention in the United Kingdom causes an application for leave to file a specification of the invention under this Part to be delivered or received by the Secretary within twelve months from the date of the actual sealing of the patent, the invention shall be deemed a new invention within the meaning of this Part if it was not publicly used or known in any part of British India at or before the date of the application for the patent, notwithstanding that it may have been publicly used or known in some part of British India or of the United Kingdom before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application under this Part for leave to file the specification. 25. If an inventor applies for leave to file a specification under this Part while his application for a patent is pending in the United Kingdom, and the interval between the date of his application for the patent and the date of the delivery or receipt of his application under this Part does not exceed twelve months, the invention shall not be deemed to have been publicly used, or made publicly known, within the meaning of this Part, by reason only of the invention having been used, or a description thereof having been published, in any part of British India or of the United Kingdom during the interval.

26. If an inventor, being the exhibitor of his invention at an industrial or international exhibition, certified as such by the Governor General in Council, causes an application for leave to file a specification of the invention to be delivered to or received by the Secretary within six months from the date of the admission of the invention into that exhibition, the invention shall not be deemed to have been publicly used, or made publicly known, within the meaning of this Part, by reason only of the invention having at any time after its admission into the exhibition been publicly used or made publicly known.

XV,

27. (1) An exclusive privilege acquired under this Part shall cease if the Governor General in Council declares the privilege, or the mode in which it is exercised, to be mischievous to the State, or generally prejudicial to the public.

(2) It shall also cease if a breach of any condition on which the applicant was authorised to file a specification, or on which the term of the exclusive privilege was extended, is proved to the satisfaction of a High Court, and if the Governor General in Council thereupon declares the privilege to have ceased.

XV,
s. 20.]

28. An exclusive privilege acquired under this Part in respect of an invention for which a patent has been obtained in the United Kingdom shall cease if the patent for the invention is revoked.

XV,
s. 22.]

29. (1) An inventor may institute a suit in the District Court against any person who, during the continuance of an exclusive privilege acquired by him under this Part in respect of an invention, makes, sells or uses the invention without his license, or counterfeits or imitates it.

XV,
s. 23.]

(2) The suit shall not be defended upon the ground of any defect or insufficiency of the specification of the invention, or upon the ground that the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention, or the original or any amended specification, contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement, or upon the ground that the invention is of no utility:

(3) Nor shall it be defended upon the ground that the plaintiff was not the inventor unless the defendant shows that he himself is the actual inventor or has obtained from the actual inventor a right to make, sell or use the invention, or to counterfeit or imitate it, as the case may be:

(4) Nor shall it be defended upon the ground that the invention was not new unless the defendant, or some person through whom he claims, has, before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, publicly or actually used in some part of British India or of the United Kingdom the invention or that part of it with respect to which the exclusive privilege is alleged to have been infringed.

30. Any person may apply to a High Court [Act XV, 1859, s. 24.] for a rule to show cause why the Court should not declare that an exclusive privilege in respect of an invention to be specified in the rule has not been acquired under this Part by reason of all or any of the objections following (to be specified in the rule), that is to say:—

- (a) that the invention is of no utility, or
- (b) that the invention was not, at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or
- (c) that the applicant was not the inventor thereof, or
- (d) that the specification or the amended specification, if any, does not particularly describe and ascertain the nature of the invention, or in what manner it is to be performed, or
- (e) that the applicant has knowingly or fraudulently included in the application or specification or amended specification, as part of his invention, something which was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or
- (f) that the original or any subsequent application relating to the invention, or the specification or amended specification, contains a wilful or fraudulent mis-statement, or by sufficiently described and ascertained, and that this insufficiency was fraudulent and is injurious to the public.
- (g) that some part of the invention, or the manner in which that part is to be performed, as described in the specification or amended specification, is not there.

xv,
s. 25.]

31. Any person may apply to a High Court for a rule to show cause why the Court should not declare that an exclusive privilege in respect of any part of an invention to be specified in the rule has not been acquired under this Part, by reason of all or any of the objections following (to be specified in the rule), that is to say:—

- (a) that that part of the invention is wholly distinct from the other part thereof and is of no utility, or
- (b) that that part of the invention was not, at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, a new invention within the meaning of this Part, or
- (c) that the applicant was not the inventor of that part of the invention, or
- (d) that that part of the invention, and the manner in which it is to be performed, are not sufficiently described and ascertained in the specification or the amended specification, if any, and that this insufficiency is injurious to the public.

xv,
s. 26.]

32. (1) Any person authorised by the Governor General in Council in this behalf may apply to a High Court for a rule to show cause why the question of the breach of any condition on which the leave to file a specification has been granted, or any other question of fact on which the cessation of an exclusive privilege under section 27 may, in the judgment of the Governor General in Council, depend, should not be tried in the form of an issue directed by the Court.

(2) If the rule is made absolute, the Court, unless the breach or other matter of fact is admitted, may direct the issue to be tried and certify the result of the trial to the Governor General in Council.

s. 27.]

33. (1) Notice of any rule obtained or proceeding taken under either of the last three foregoing sections shall be served on all persons appearing from the address-book to be proprietors of the exclusive privilege, or to have shares or interests therein, and it shall not be necessary to serve the notice on any other persons.

v,
s. 28.]

(2) The notice shall be deemed to be sufficiently served if a copy thereof is left at the place for the time being stated in the address-book, by delivering the copy to any person resident at or in charge of the place, or, if there is no person resident at or in charge of the place, or if the place is not within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, by causing the notice to be sent to the place by post by a registered letter directed to the person to whom the notice is addressed.

34. (1) The High Court may, if it thinks fit, [Act XV, 1859, s. 28.] direct an issue for the trial, before itself or any other High Court, or any District Court, of any question of fact arising upon an application under section 30, section 31 or section 32, and the issue shall be tried accordingly.

(2) If the issue is directed to another Court, the finding shall be certified by that Court to the Court directing the issue.

(3) If the issue is directed to a District Court, the finding of that Court shall not be subject to appeal, but the evidence taken upon the trial shall be recorded, and a copy thereof, certified by the Judge of the Court, shall be transmitted, together with any remarks which he may think fit to make thereon, to the High Court, and the High Court may thereupon either act upon the finding of the District Court or direct a new trial as it thinks fit.

35. (1) If it appears to the High Court at the [Act XV, 1859, s. 29.] hearing of an application under section 30 or section 31 that, by reason of any of the objections specified in the rule, the exclusive privilege in the invention or in any part thereof has not been acquired, the Court shall make an order accordingly, and thereupon the applicant shall, so long as the order continues in force, cease to be entitled to the exclusive privilege.

(2) If it appears to the High Court, at the [Act XV, 1859, s. 30.] hearing of any such application as last aforesaid, that the applicant has, in the description of his invention in the application for leave to file the specification, or in the specification or amended specification, if any, included something which at the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification was not new or whereof he was not the inventor, or that the specification is in any particular defective or insufficient, but that the error, defect or insufficiency was not fraudulently intended, the Court may adjudge the exclusive privilege to have been acquired and to be valid, save as to the part thereof affected by the error, defect or insufficiency: or

(3) If it appears to the High Court that the error, defect or insufficiency can be amended without injury to the public, the Court may adjudge the exclusive privilege in respect of the whole of the invention to be valid, and may, upon such terms as it thinks reasonable, order the specification to be amended in any particular in which it is erroneous, defective or insufficient, and thereupon the applicant shall, within a time to be limited by the Court for the purpose, file a specification amended according to the order :

Provided that nothing in the amended specification shall be construed to extend or enlarge the exclusive privilege before acquired.

v, 31.] (4) An exclusive privilege in respect of an invention shall not be defeated upon the ground that the application for leave to file the specification of the invention contains a mis-statement, unless the mis-statement was wilful or fraudulent.

v, 34.] 36. (1) In a suit for the infringement of an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part the plaintiff shall deliver with his plaint particulars of the breaches complained of in the suit, and the defendant shall deliver a written statement of the particulars of the grounds, if any, upon which he means to contend that the plaintiff is not entitled to an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention.

(2) In like manner, upon an application to a High Court under section 30, section 31 or section 32, the person making the application shall deliver particulars of the objections or grounds on which he means to rely.

(3) At the hearing of any such suit or application, or at the trial of any issue arising out of any such application, evidence shall not be allowed to be given in support of any alleged infringement or of any objection or ground impeaching the validity of the exclusive privilege which is not contained in the particulars delivered under this section.

(4) If it is alleged that the invention was publicly used or known before the date of the delivery or receipt of the application for leave to file the specification, the places where and the manner in which the invention was so publicly used or known shall be stated in the particulars.

(5) Notwithstanding anything in the foregoing portion of this section, the Court in which the suit or application is pending, or an issue arising out of the application is being tried, may allow the plaintiff or defendant respectively to amend the particulars delivered under this section upon such terms as it thinks fit.

33.] 37. If, in a suit instituted in the District Court Title of actual inventor to exclusive privilege in case of fraud. within two years from the date of the delivery or receipt of an application for leave to file a specification, the actual inventor proves to the satisfaction of the Court that the applicant was not the actual inventor, and that at the time of the application for leave to file the specification he knew or had reason to believe that the knowledge of the invention was obtained by himself or by some other person surreptitiously or in fraud of the actual inventor, or by means of a communication made in confidence by the actual inventor to him or to any person through whom he derived the knowledge, the Court may make a decree declaring an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention to be vested, subject to the other provisions of this Part, in the actual inventor for a term of fourteen years from the date of the filing of the specification, and requiring the applicant to account for and pay over to the actual inventor the profits derived by him from the invention.

38. A Court making a decree in a suit under [New.] section 29 or section 37, or copies of decrees and orders to Secretary. under section 30, section 31 or section 32, shall send a copy of the decree or order, as the case may be, to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof to be made in the register of inventions and against any entry in the address-book affected thereby.

Registration of cessation of exclusive privilege. 39. In the following [Act XV, 1859, s. 32.] cases, namely—

(a) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 8 by reason of a fee in respect of the continuance of the privilege not having been paid within the time limited by the fourth schedule for the payment thereof, and the period within which an order might have been made for enlarging the time for the making of the payment has expired ;

(b) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has been declared by the Governor General in Council under section 27 to have ceased ;

(c) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 28 by reason of the revocation of a patent ;

(d) when the whole or any part of an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased under section 35 in consequence of an order under that section ;

(e) when an exclusive privilege has been declared by a decree to have vested in an actual inventor under section 37 ;

(f) when an exclusive privilege acquired under this Part has ceased by reason of the expiration of the term for which it was acquired ;

the Secretary shall cause an entry with respect to the cessation or vesting of the exclusive privilege to be made in the register of inventions.

(2) A copy of the order shall be forwarded by the Court to the Secretary, who shall cause an entry thereof to be made in the register of inventions and against any entry in the address-book affected thereby.

(b) the reasonable requirements of the public with respect to the invention cannot be supplied, or

(c) any person is prevented from working or using to the best advantage an invention of which he is possessed, the Governor General in Council may order the inventor to grant, or may himself on behalf of the inventor grant, licenses on such terms as to the amount of royalties, security for payment, or otherwise, as the Governor General in Council, having regard to the nature of the invention and the circumstances of the case, may deem just.

proper steps to ensure the marking of the article.

52. If the proprietor of a design exhibited [46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, s. 57.] at an industrial or international exhibition, certified as such by the Governor General in Council, causes an application for an order for the registration of the design to be delivered to or received by the Secretary within six months from the date of the admission of the design into that exhibition, the design shall not be deemed not to be new or original within the meaning of section 48 by reason only of the design having been exhibited at the exhibition.

53. (1) The proprietor of a registered design [46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, s. 59.] may institute a suit in the District Court for the recovery of any damages arising from the application of the design, or of any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof, for the purpose of sale by any person to any article, or from the publication, sale or exposure for sale by any person of any article to which the design, or any fraudulent or obvious imitation thereof, has been applied, that person knowing or having reason to believe that the proprietor had not given his consent to such application.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Act for granting exclusive Privileges to Inventors in India, No. XV of 1859, was framed by Sir Barnes Peacock and Sir James Colville, who, when the question of providing protection for inventors came under consideration in the years 1856-59, had to create both a substantive law and a law of procedure. Instead of following the English law, they took a different course. As regards the substantive law, while following for the most part the main lines of the English law, they did not hesitate to introduce important variations where they thought it desirable to do so. As regards the procedure for obtaining an exclusive privilege, it was altogether different from the English procedure. On petition and leave given to file a specification, and on the specification being filed within the prescribed period, the exclusive privilege sprang into existence by mere operation of law, provided, of course, that the claim was well founded in substance—a matter of which the claimant, as in England, took the risk. The procedure was thus of the simplest description.

During the period, exceeding a quarter of a century, for which the Act of 1859 has been in operation, it has worked on the whole satisfactorily. Difficulties have, however, from time to time arisen, and the increasing resort to the Act has of late brought them into greater prominence; and though these difficulties are not of such a kind as to require, in the opinion of the Government of India, any alteration which would affect the main principles of the Act, still their removal is very desirable. It has been decided, therefore, after communication with the Secretary of State and the Board of Trade, to introduce this Bill and to incorporate in it certain provisions suggested by the Patents, Designs and Trade Marks Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, as amended by 48 & 49 Vic., c. 63).

2. The following are the provisions of the Bill which seem to call for remark:—

- (1) Section 3.—The Bill is divided into two Parts, the one relating to Inventions and the other to Designs. The former Part reproduces the Act of 1859 with certain modifications: the latter Part is an adaptation of the essential provisions of Part III of the English Act of 1883.
- (2) Section 4, clause (8).—The constitution of an Inventions Office under the superintendence of the Secretary to the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department, and the transfer to him of the functions exercised under Act XV of 1859 by the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department, have been under the consideration of the Government.
- (3) Section 4, clause (10).—It is proposed to confer the jurisdiction of a High Court under the Bill on the High Courts at Fort William, Madras, Bombay and Allahabad, the Chief Court of the Panjáb and the Recorder of Rangoon.
- (4) Section 5, sub-section (3).—The petition for leave to file a specification of an invention, presented under section 1 of the Act of 1859, not infrequently furnishes only a vague description of the invention which it is sought to protect, and, when a fuller and clearer description is called for, it is at times only supplied under protest. If such particulars as section 5, sub-section (3), of the Bill is intended to enable the Governor General in Council to call for are not forthcoming, the purposes of section 3 of the Act respecting references to experts may be defeated. In authorising drawings to be called for, the Bill follows 46 & 47 Vic., c. 57, section 5, sub-section (3).
- (5) Section 5, sub-section (4), and section 25.—A question has recently arisen as to whether a person is precluded under the existing law from proceeding to acquire concurrently a patent under the English Act and an exclusive privilege under the Indian Act; and it has been held, on the advice of the Hon'ble the Advocate General of Bengal, that he is not so precluded provided he can truly state at the time of applying for leave to file his specification in India that his invention is not publicly used or known in the United Kingdom. It is proposed therefore to provide in the Bill, on the analogy of the provisions of sections 103 and 104 of the English Act, that if an inventor applies for leave to file a specification in India within one year from the date of his application for a patent in England, his invention shall not be deemed to have been publicly used or made publicly known within the meaning of the Indian Act by reason only of the invention having been used, or a description thereof having been published, in any part of India or of the United Kingdom during the interval between his application for the patent and his application for leave to file the specification.
- (6) Section 6.—It is proposed by this section to make it clear that the nature and extent of the enquiry into the merits of an application are matters in the discretion of the Governor General in Council. Successive Advocates General have advised that the existing law imposes upon the Government the duty of making enquiry to an extent which must at times seriously delay the progress of an application without producing any commensurate advantage.
It is proposed to leave to the Government, instead of to the High Court, the settlement of the fee to be paid to an expert to whom an application is referred for inquiry and report.
- (7) Section 7.—This section provides for the case of concurrent applications in respect of contemporaneous inventions, and follows generally the rule obtaining in England (In re Dering, 13 Ch. D. 393).
- (8) Section 8, sub-section (1).—Cases of hardship have occurred owing to there being no provision for extending the period of six months within which section 4 of the Act of 1859 requires a specification to be filed after an order authorising the filing of it has been made. It is proposed therefore, to empower the Governor General in Council, on cause shown to his satisfaction, to extend the period from six to nine months.
- (9) Section 8, sub-sections (2), (3) and (4).—These sub-sections follow section 17, sub-sections (2), (3) and (4), of the English Act of 1883, and are rendered necessary by the change to be presently noticed which it is proposed to make in the system of levying fees.
- (10) Section 11.—It does not seem necessary to have copies of specifications filed in the offices of the Secretaries to the Governments of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces. The office of the Secretaries to the Government of Bengal is in Calcutta, where specifications are open to inspection at the office of the Home Department of the Government of India. As regards the North-Western Provinces, communication is much easier now than in 1859, and inconvenience has not, it is believed, been found to result from the law not requiring copies to be sent to and filed by the Secretary to the Government of the Panjáb.

- (11) Section 15.—This section is based on section 25 of the English Act, and empowers the Governor General in Council to refer to the High Court for report an application for an extension of the term of an exclusive privilege. Following the English Act, it also makes an extension of the term for so long a period as fourteen years permissible in exceptional cases only.
- (12) Section 17.—This section follows section 27 of the English Act in making an exclusive privilege have the same effect against the Crown as it has against a subject. But it authorises officers of the Crown to use the invention for the services of the Crown on terms to be before or after the use thereof agreed on with the approval of the Governor General in Council or, in default of agreement, on terms to be settled by the Governor General in Council.

As regards the attaching of conditions to an order authorising the filing of a specification by a public servant, it seems to be fair and just to adopt such reasonable precautions as will prevent him from using to the prejudice of the Government experience acquired in the course of his employment.

- (13) Section 24.—Under section 13 of the English Act of 1883, patents must be dated and sealed as of the day of the application, and under sections 8, 9 and 12 of that Act as amended by 48 & 49 Vic., c. 63, a period of nineteen months, or even a longer period, may elapse between the application for, and the sealing of, the patent. If, therefore, section 20 of the Indian Act of 1859, which limits to twelve months from the date of the patent the time for applying to the Governor General in Council for leave to file a specification of an invention patented in England, is literally construed, it may have the effect of precluding an inventor from securing an exclusive privilege in India. In order to avert the injustice or disappointment which may thus be the result of working section 20 of the Indian Act in connection with the English Act, it is proposed to permit the holder of a patent obtained in England to apply to the Governor General in Council within twelve months from the date on which the patent was actually sealed. The date of actual sealing stated in the application can be verified by reference to the Official Journal of the Patent Office.
- (14) Section 26.—This section covers the Protection of Inventions Act, XVI of 1883, which is scheduled for repeal. But it is proposed to protect inventions not from the date of the opening of an exhibition but from the date of their admission into the exhibition. The English Act is about to be amended in this respect.
- (15) Section 28.—It is proposed, on the advice of the Board of Trade, to abolish the rule of section 20 of the Act of 1859, that, where a patent for an invention has been obtained in the United Kingdom, an exclusive privilege in respect of the invention in India is not to extend beyond the term granted by the patent.
- (16) Section 42.—This section reproduces the substance of section 22 of the English Act, and provides for the grant of compulsory licenses where an inventor who has acquired an exclusive privilege does not make his invention accessible.
- (17) Section 45.—This section and the fourth schedule are based on section 24 and the second schedule of the English Act, and on the first schedule to the Patent Rules, 1883, made by the Board of Trade under the Act. Light fees are proposed to be levied in respect of applications for leave to file specifications and in respect of the filing of specifications, and increasingly heavy fees periodically in respect of the continuance of an exclusive privilege. Under section 8 of the Bill an exclusive privilege will cease if any fee in respect of its continuance is not paid within the time limited for the payment.
- (18) Part II of the Bill, relating to Designs, is, as already stated, a mere adaptation of Part III of the English Act of 1883. It extends from three to five years the period during which copyright in a design is to continue.

S. HARVEY JAMES,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of India.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882, was presented to the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th January, 1887:—

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1882, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted on the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 1657, dated 14th August, 1886 [Paper No. 1].

From Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 2097, dated 25th August, 1886 [Paper No. 2].

From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 290 G., dated 25th August, 1886 [Paper No. 3].

From Under Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 3980—233, dated 31st August, 1886 [Paper No. 4].

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 810—22 L., dated 31st August, 1886 [Paper No. 5].

From Chief Commissioner, Ajmere-Merwara, No. 1055—690-II, dated 14th September, 1886 [Paper No. 6].

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 1670—3256, dated 14th September, 1886 [Paper No. 7].

From Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2546, dated 23rd September, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 8].

From Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 767—VII—328-10, dated 2nd October, 1886 [Paper No. 9].

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 5813, dated 11th October, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 10].

Endorsement by Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2863, dated 23rd October, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 11].

From Chief Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 3322 J., dated 19th November, 1886, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].

terms to fiscal debts due from a bankrupt to the Crown, we deem it desirable to give priority in similar terms to like debts due to the Crown from a Company which is being wound up. This saving may not be absolutely necessary in the case of debts due to the Crown (L. R. 9 Ch. D. 469 and 5 Bom. H. C. R. 23); but it is proposed, as in the Bankruptcy Bill, to give to rates and taxes payable to local authorities the same priority as to Crown debts, and in the case of some at least of those rates and taxes an express declaration of their priority will be necessary.

3. The salaries of clerks and servants being paid monthly in this country, we consider it will be sufficient to give priority to those salaries for the same time, namely, two months, as priority is given to wages of labourers and workmen by the Companies Act, 1883 (46 & 47 Vic., c. 28). But we agree with the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Calcutta Trades Association and other authorities that in this country it is proper to give priority to the salary of a clerk or servant for a larger sum than in England, and we have proposed to raise to Rs. 1,000 the limit up to which the salary of a clerk or servant is to have priority.

As regards the priority to be given to the wages of labourers and workmen, we propose to follow the Companies Act, 1883, in limiting it to wages in respect of services rendered during the two months before the commencement of the winding up.

PROCEEDINGS OF A MEETING OF THE MUHAMMADAN
EDUCATIONAL ENDOWMENTS COMMITTEE, HELD
ON 28TH DECEMBER 1886.

Published for general information at the request of the Committee.

PRESENT :

HON'BLE G. C. PAUL, C.I.E., Advocate-General, President.
MR. AMIR ALI.
NAWAB ABDUL LATIF, KHAN BAHADUR, C.I.E.
HON'BLE ABDUL JUBBER.
NAWAB MEER MAHOMED ALI.
P. NOLAN, Esq.

THE President observed that Mr. Nolan's note gave an accurate statement of the general result of the enquiry conducted by the Committee. From the decision passed by the High Court after hearing the argument of Mr. Amir Ali in the Sasseram-Khanka endowment case, it appeared that under the existing law an endowment might be treated as religious, though the deed by which it was constituted contained some provision for education. The speaker proposed that in such cases power should be given to the Civil Courts, on application made, to separate the educational from the religious portion of endowments, and to make separate provision for each, just as similar powers had been given to the Board of Revenue by Act XX of 1863. As to Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali's recommendation for the appointment of a Standing Committee, it might be adopted, but much of the real work would always have to be done by Government.

Mr. Nolan pointed out that under section 539, Civil Procedure Code, a Civil Court had at present the power, "whenever the direction of the Court is deemed necessary," to declare the proportions in which the objects of an endowment are entitled, and settle a scheme of management. He did not see what new jurisdiction the proposed law would confer. Did the President intend to suggest any principle according to which the division should be made? If left to their own guidance, the Courts would act as at present, and education would not be promoted.

The President replied that he would make the procedure cheaper and more summary than under section 539, and he would require no proof of fraud. The principle of division should, he thought, be to give the surplus to education after making a sufficient provision for all religious objects.

Mr. Amir Ali stated that he quite agreed with the President as to the desirability of simplifying the procedure in endowment cases. The supervision of endowments was a regular part of the duty of Government in Muhammadan countries: the officer charged with that function was in Turkey called the Nazir-i-Awkaf. But the executive should not have power to divert the course of endowments, lest officers should apply the funds to objects in which they took an immediate interest without due regard to the terms of the foundation.

Nawab Abdul Latif, Khan Bahadur, stated, speaking generally, a Muhammadan endowment originated in the act of some pious person who built a mosque during his lifetime, and on his death, being, perhaps, without the blessing of children, left a foundation to maintain it, devoting so much for lighting it, and so much for the maintenance of tâlil-ul-ilm—seekers of knowledge. The mosque is often at a distance from any town, and it is desired that some persons should reside in it to pray. The tâlil-ul-ilm are such persons, and their residence was contemplated by the pious founders. If the money assigned for them is to be taken away, and devoted to education elsewhere than in the mosque, who will remain to pray?

Mr. Amir Ali stated that he did not understand Mr. Paul's proposal as referring to purely religious endowments, but where there was an intention, expressed or implied, on the part of the founder, that a part of the income should be devoted to education, then the principle could be applied. Everyone now studied English and Bengali. Nawab Abdul Latif, Khan Bahadur, was himself an advocate of this. The cypres doctrine was applied to the utmost extent in Muhammadan law, and it would be perfectly consistent with that system to assign for the support of schools money left for the education of students. The word tâlil-ul-ilm meant any seeker of knowledge or student, and was not confined to theological students.

The President said he did not see much advantage from the residence of idle *tâlil-ul-ilm*s at mosques, when they might be acquiring a useful education elsewhere. He would leave purely religious endowments alone, and referred only to those of a mixed character. The contention that money assigned for the maintenance of students could not be devoted to secular education seemed to touch the root of the Committee's business. It was not clear how there could be any improvement if this position were maintained.

Hon'ble Abdâl Jubber produced Hughes' Dictionary of Islam in which tâlil-ul-ilm is described as "a term generally used for a student of Divinity." In this case we should distinguish between our ideas of education and those with which pious founders made provision for students in endowment deeds. It was certain that the founders of former generations contemplated an education of a character different in its essence from that given in our schools. He knew a case in which such a founder, managing his own endowment, refused to support students if they learned Bengali. The prejudice against English education survived in certain classes; he knew a mukhtear who refused to give his son such an education. Men of the present day might found institutions for education of the modern type, and they did do so, as our proceedings prove. But they should not interfere with the bequests of dead men. He had no objection to supervision of endowments, but opposed the diversion of funds from religious to English education.

Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali enquired what was the word for a secular student, if tâlil-ul-ilm meant a theological student?

Nawab Abdul Latif replied that he knew of no specific designation for a secular student, and did not maintain that tâlil-ul-ilm always meant divinity students, but that it bore that significance in our endowment deeds. This could be proved by witnesses.

Mr. Nolan said that Mr. Paul's proposals were new to the Committee, and having been examined in a preliminary discussion, their further consideration might, with the permission of the President, be postponed. He was not sanguine as to the benefit of simplifying the procedure for trying endowment cases. These almost always involved questions of private claims to the property, which had to be regularly tried, if any case had to be; while such work as the framing of schemes of management was at present, he understood from the High Court's action in the Bruce legacy case, done in chambers, in the most convenient way. The proposal to devote to secular education all the proceeds of mixed endowments not needed for religious purposes was very important, and would, if adopted, lead to large financial results. He presumed that no attempt would ever be made to supersede religious education in mosques where such was in fact given. But apart from this would not a proposal constitute to education the residuary legatees of all endowments, after specific bequests had been carried out be unfavourably received by the Muhammadans as a body? In matters which might be taken as trenching on religion, great caution should be observed, and it was desirable not to proceed in advance of public opinion. There was another aspect of the case which had not been discussed,—that of the mutwalis, or hereditary managers, who now often acted as residuary legatees, taking the surplus profits of endowments after providing for specified objects. How would their claims be reconciled with making over this same surplus to education?

Mr. Ameer Ali replied that the principle would apply only when the manager was left a definite provision as one-ninth of the profits, and certainly not to cases where he was entitled to the whole surplus.

Nawab Abdul Latif Khan Bahadoor stated that Act XX of 1863 had occasioned much embezzlement, and he was strongly in favour of its repeal, and the reversion to the old system, under which endowments were managed by local agents, including the Collector.

Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali explained that he had advocated this in his memorandum before the Committee.

Mr. Amir Ali said he was not prepared on the present occasion to give an opinion on this matter, which referred to religious as well as secular endowments, and was beyond the scope of the Committee's immediate functions.

The Committee then proceeded to discuss the proposal of Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali, in his memorandum, that a standing Committee should be formed for the supervision of secular or educational endowments, and the several questions as to the functions of such a Committee put in Mr. Nolan's note. Nawab Abdul Latif and the Hon'ble Abdul Jubber opposed the appointment of such a Committee, which was supported by the President, Mr. Amir Ali, and Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali. Mr. Nolan was in favour of the appointment only in case the Muhammadan community generally approved, of which he at present saw no adequate proof. On the supposition that a Committee should be appointed, the following answers were given to the questions put in the note. Nawab Abdul Latif and Hon'ble Abdul Jubber took no part in the discussion as being opposed to the formation of the Committees except as to questions 11, 12, and 13:—

Questions.

1. Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali suggests the formation of a standing Committee for the supervision of secular or educational endowments. All the subsequent proposals assume the appointment of such a body, and deal with its functions.

2. The number of the Commissioners of which such a Committee should be composed has to be considered, and the method of their appointment.

3. Should this Committee deal only with secular as opposed to religious educational funds, and, if so, how are the two to be distinguished? An education designed to qualify the pupil for teaching or ministering religion is generally considered religious; but in the case of Muhammadans the subject is complicated by the absence of a separate class of priests.

4. Should the Committee deal only with educational funds, or with all the secular funds of endowments, including those devoted to charitable doles and to the maintenance of travellers?

5. The Endowed Schools Act of 1869 gives the Charity Commissioners in England power to apply to education, with the consent of the governing body, the funds of trusts made before 1800 for doles, marriage portions, loans, apprentice fees, &c. Mr. Beighton, Judge of Moorshedabad, commends this system for imitation in India. The practical effect would be to render available for education funds now devoted to doles and to the maintenance of serais for travellers. In England there is a strong feeling against what was once considered the most obvious form of charity—doles of money or food to the poor; but this sentiment is connected with the system of poor law relief prevalent in England, and may not be applicable to India.

6. Should the Committee possess powers of inquisition, and, if so, what powers? The grant of such powers is strongly recommended in many of the reports. The suggestion in our preliminary report is that the Commissioners might be empowered to call for title deeds of any lands credibly alleged to be held in trust for educational purposes, to summon and examine witnesses, and to delegate these powers to any local Committee presided over by a District Collector.

7. Should the Committee have the power to call for accounts, and, if so, of what endowments—of educational purely secular endowments, or of mixed endowments also? And is an endowment to be considered subject to the obligation of rendering accounts where it is exclusively religious according to the foundation deed, but in practice the funds have been in part applied to secular purposes? The case has to be considered of the Bohar endowment, Burdwan, in which the matwali refuses to render accounts on the ground that "it is quite clear that the calling for an account respecting the endowment is an act of interference which the firman does not allow." In some instances the founder has left everything to the discretion of the manager, and does not seem to have contemplated a call for accounts. In the case of Ghugudanga, Dinagepore, reported in the Commissioner of Rajshahye's letter dated 2nd July 1886, it would seem that the donor simply made a property worth Rs. 50,000 a year wakf providing, among other objects, for the institution of a madrasa, but never in fact founded the madrasa. A similar case is noticed in Chittagong, where the wakf seems to have been made in fraud of creditors. Where such is the intention, no precise sum is named for the support of the institution, and it will be difficult to say for what amount an account has to be rendered.

Answers.

1. A Committee should be appointed.

2. Five or seven members appointed by Government.

3. The Committee to deal with secular funds only.

4. The Committee to deal with all secular funds.

5. No such power should be given.

6. Powers of inquisition should be given, viz., the right to call for documents, and procure attendance of witnesses; these to be exercised through the civil courts, as is done in the case of Sub-Registrars.

7. The Committee should have power to call for accounts from all secular and mixed endowments, the accounts to show all receipts, and the expenditure on public secular objects only.

Questions.

Answers.

8. Should the Committee have power of itself to remedy abuses, or merely to bring a suit in the Civil Courts with that object? The right to sue only was at first given to the Charity Commissioners in England; but direct power of control was vested in them afterwards in respect to endowments of less than the annual value of £100. In this country a Committee would be met at every step by the plea that the endowment was religious, or that it was purely property.

8. The right to investigate and report to Government should be given; the suits to be instituted by Government.

9. Should the Committee be vested with the power conferred on the Charity Commissioners by the Endowed Schools Act, to make schemes for the management of schools without the consent of trustees, and, if so, should the confirmation of Government be required to such schemes, as that of the Privy Council is required at Home?

9. No.

10. In England all endowment funds are vested in the official trustee, and his consent is necessary to the transfer of land. Should the land of all secular endowments be entered in the name of the Committee, and their consent be necessary to the validity of all sales or leases for more than 20 years? There are many complaints in the correspondence of the alienation for private purposes of wakf lands; and these transfers acquire validity by lapse of time. It is alleged that the Civil Courts are inclined to deal leniently with the claims of purchasers of such lands.

10. On this point there was much discussion, as the advantages of preventing the scandal of the alienation of wakf lands was strongly urged, and it was acknowledged that such sales, though illegal, took place frequently, and were validated by the Limitation Act after twelve years' possession. It was thought inexpedient to enter such lands in the name of the Committee, though it would accomplish very effectively the object aimed at, as such a course would cause alarm. As an alternative it was considered that the consent of a Civil Court should be declared necessary to the transfer by sale of wakf lands.

11. Mr. Beighton suggests that trusts should be placed under Committees elected by local bodies such as municipalities. He considers the objection that these bodies are Hindu of no great weight.

11. This course is not approved.

12. Mr. Beighton also proposes to abolish the distinction between public and private trusts, making the latter like the former, subject to the supervision of the Committee.

12. This is unnecessary.

13. Should power be given to the courts to dismiss an hereditary matwali for mismanagement? It is stated by Mr. Beighton, on the authority of a Madras case, that this is not done at present.

13. This is unnecessary. The Courts at present exercise a discretion in this matter.

14. Should the Committee be entrusted with the management of the Moshin Fund, as suggested in our preliminary report?

14. Postponed.

15. From what source are the expenses of the Committee to be met?

15. Ditto.

16. Should District Committees be formed, and, if so, should they be in addition to the Central Committee?

16. Local Committees may be formed in addition to the Central Committee.

It was resolved that future meetings should be held at 8 A.M. on alternate Saturdays.

P. NOLAN,

Secretary, Muhammadan Educational

Endowments Committee.

NOTE.

THE duties of the Muhammedan Educational Endowments Committee are divided into two branches,—the ascertainment of facts as to Muhammedan educational foundations, and the examination or consideration of any proposals which may be suggested for the improvement of the law and administration in regard to such institutions. It may be convenient if I give a summary of the results of our enquiry under the first head, so far as it has as yet proceeded, and of the points brought forward under the second head for examination.

2. In our preliminary report to Government, dated the 30th July 1886, we gave a list of 46 endowments at present maintained in working order, and of 15 with regard to the funds of which the local officers considered that malversation had taken place. As to the latter, we noticed that the Committee, in their instructions to those making enquiries, requested that copies of the touleutnamahs of endowments might be forwarded, or, where these were not obtainable, the statements of competent witnesses; but that this course had not been followed with regard to the 15 suspected foundations. The allegations as to malversation could therefore only be considered as the expression of opinions to be tested by subsequent enquiries which the local officers were requested to make. The first business of the Committee on re-assembling will be to consider the result of these enquiries.

3. Four of the fifteen endowments are situated in the Patna Division, and are dealt with in Mr. Halliday's report dated the 16th November, a copy of which is circulated herewith. The original information on the subject was given by Moulvie Khoda Buksh, Government Pleader of Patna, the local committee being reported to be indifferent. The allegation of misappropriation of educational funds has not in any instance been substantiated. The persons in possession of the land said to appertain to two of the foundations claim to be private owners of the estates, and deny the existence of any trust; and nothing has been found to show that such trusts exist. The copy of the touleutnamah of the third (the original document is missing) contains no provision for education. The touleutnamah of the fourth institution, that of Jafri, indicates that the foundation is primarily religious, but contains some reference to education, the land being left for the support of the trustee, the repairs of a mosque, khankah and tombs for charity to poor travellers, pupils, preachers and criers; and for the pay of the sweeper of the mosque. There is a specific allowance of one-tenth to Moulvie Ashruf Ali, provided he resides in the khankah and there teaches boys. Evidence taken by the Sub-divisional Officer of Behar indicates that the teaching contemplated is religious, and there is nothing to show that it is neglected. As to the four Patna cases, I would therefore say that the allegation of the diversion of educational funds has not been in any way supported, and is to a certain extent disproved.

4. The reply of the Burdwan Commissioner, dated the 9th November, circulated herewith, shows that nothing has been ascertained with regard to the seven endowments previously reported as diverted to improper uses in his division. They lie in the Midnapore district, and the report of the Magistrate on the subject has not yet been received.

5. Four of the endowments are situated in Balasore, and the Commissioner of Orissa, with his annexed memorandum, dated the 28th October 1886, forwards a copy of a letter from the District Collector, stating that the allegations of malversations "do not rest on any tangible grounds, and therefore are not capable of formal investigation and enquiry."

6. In addition to these specific allegations, there was a general statement made by the Collector of Noakhally, and noticed in paragraph 7 of our preliminary report,—that there were many endowments in his district of a mixed character, partly religious and partly educational. He was asked to supply some typical instances of such foundations, and has since been reminded of the matter; but no reply has as yet been received.

7. The correspondence forwarded with the Commissioner of Burdwan's letter annexed, dated the 9th November 1886, adds 16 new endowments to our list. As to five of these, it is alleged that no education is at present given, though the foundation is in part educational. The touleutnamahs are not forthcoming, and no evidence is offered, either that these were educational endowments, or that no education is given. Mr. Beames raises a question which the Committee will have to consider, as to whether talim'ilim means a religious student, or simply a student. The matter is of importance, as on the construction of this word the religious or secular character of several foundations is said to depend.

8. An interesting letter from the late Commissioner of the Rajshahye Division, No. 204Mct., dated 2nd July 1886, is annexed. It adds three endowments to our list, and mention is also made of others, though the form in respect to them is not filled up. The report of Moulvie Abdus Soban is valuable as giving the history of the Bagha and Nattore endowments. In these cases it seems that the trustees are bound to keep up madrasahs, and that they perform this obligation; but that they spend less on education than was done formerly. There is no specified bequest for education, as distinct from the maintenance of the old religious institutions which formed the primary object of the grants.

9. Although several reports are still due—in particular from Burdwan and Midnapore—it is not probable that the new information will differ much in character from the old; and the members of the Committee are now in a position to proceed to the second part of their task,—the consideration of any legislative or executive measures which might be taken with advantage for the protection of Muhammedan educational endowments. Our enquiry shows that there are in Bengal 30 foundations purely educational, or at least secular, in character, and that they are all of modern origin. It has extended also to some 60 ancient endowments, supposed to be, at least to some extent, educational. It shows that they were all founded ostensibly with a view to the maintenance of some mosque, khankah, or mausoleum for the benefit of religion. The maintenance of the manager, who was generally the founder, and of his family, was most frequently an object which, though not prominently put forward, was guarded with care. In some instances, indeed, the foundation may be regarded as an expedient for creating a perpetual entail, and in that aspect very ingeniously adapted to its purpose. We have not discovered any ancient foundation exclusively, or even primarily, secular in character. The Bohar endowment, Burdwan Division, is entered in our list as "partly educational, partly charitable;" but on reference to the touleutnamah I find that it was established for the maintenance and lighting of a mausoleum. The educational element in old endowments is introduced by some clause in the deed prescribing the imparting of instruction to students, generally described as talim'ulim, or by the fact that, without such written obligation to do so, the manager has in fact maintained a madrasa, or pupils. The Mohsin endowment is the most striking instance of a foundation which has been devoted to education, though the original deed gave no hint of such an intention in the breast of the pious founder; it happened to come under Government management, and the funds were employed in the way supposed to be most useful. The touleutnamah also provide occasionally for two other forms of charity—doles to the poor, and the support of travellers by erecting serais or otherwise. Though such acts are not strictly religious, they accord with the Muhammedan, as they do with the mediæval Christian, ideal of a religious institution, an endowed mosque being considered, I understand (some members of the Committee will be able to correct me if I am wrong in this) not merely a place of worship, like a church open only on Sundays, but also a suitable place for imparting instruction of a certain class, for the relief of the poor, and particularly of travellers who may be supposed to be pilgrims.

10. Our enquiry fully substantiates the assertion that there is great danger of the perversion to private uses of ancient endowments. In some instances a part of the wakf land has been sold or otherwise permanently alienated. Modern educational endowments, as far as we have ascertained, appear to be looked after with due care.

11. These, I understand, are the broad facts with regard to Muhammedan endowments, and I need not point out that they indicate difficulties greater than those felt in dealing with charitable foundations in England. The manner in which secular trusts grow out of, and are intermixed with, the main religious object of ancient endowments, and the hereditary claim of many persons to the management of the foundation, and to maintenance on an undefined scale out of the proceeds, render it a delicate task to interfere for the protection of worldly and public interests without disturbing religious or private rights. Two members of the Committee, who were engaged in the recent litigation as to the Sassaram endowment, will be able to explain these difficulties in detail.

12. Such being the facts with which we have to deal, it remains to state the proposals which have to be considered. I give those suggested by the correspondence, and members may probably wish to add others—

(1.)—Nawab Meer Mahomed Ali, in the annexed memorandum, suggests the formation of a standing committee for the supervision of secular or educational endowments. All the subsequent proposals assume the appointment of such a body, and deal with its functions.

(2.)—The number of the Commissioners of which such a Committee should be composed has to be considered, and the method of their appointment.

(3.)—Should this Committee deal only with secular as opposed to religious educational funds, and, if so, how are the two to be distinguished? An education designed to qualify the pupil for teaching or ministering religion is generally considered religious; but in the case of Muhammedans the subject is complicated by the absence of a separate class of priests.

(4.)—Should the Committee deal only with educational funds, or with all the secular funds of endowments, including those devoted to charitable doles and to the maintenance of travellers?

(5.)—The Endowed Schools Act of 1869 gives the Charity Commissioners in England power to apply to education, with the consent of the governing body, the funds of trusts made before 1800 for doles, marriage portions, loans, apprentice fees, &c. Mr. Beighton, Judge of Moorshedabad, commends this system for imitation in India. The practical effect would be to render available for education funds now devoted to doles and to the maintenance of serais for travellers. In England there is a strong feeling against what was once considered the most obvious form of charity—doles of money or food to the poor; but this sentiment is connected with the system of poor law relief prevalent in England, and may not be applicable to India.

(6.)—Should the Committee possess powers of inquisition, and, if so, what powers? The grant of such powers is strongly recommended in many of the reports. The suggestion in our preliminary report is that the Commissioners might be empowered to call for title deeds of any lands credibly alleged to be held in trust for educational purposes, to summon and examine witnesses, and to delegate these powers to any local Committee presided over by a District Collector.

(7.)—Should the Committee have the power to call for accounts, and, if so, of what endowments—of educational purely secular endowments, or of mixed endowments also? And is an endowment to be considered subject to the obligation of rendering accounts where it is exclusively religious according to the foundation deed, but in practice the funds have been in part applied to secular purposes? The case has to be considered of the Bohar endowment, Burdwan, in which the matwali refuses to render accounts on the ground that "it is quite clear that the calling for an account respecting the endowment is an act of interference which the firman does not allow." In some instances the founder has left everything to the discretion of the manager, and does not seem to have contemplated a call for accounts. In the case of Ghugudanga, Dinagapore, reported in the Commissioner of Rajshahye's letter dated 2nd July 1886, it would seem that the donor simply made a property worth Rs. 50,000 a year wakf, providing, among other objects, for the institution of a madrasa, but never in fact founded the madrasa. A similar case is noticed in Chittagong, where the wakf seems to have been made in fraud of creditors. Where such is the intention, no precise sum is named for the support of the institution, and it will be difficult to say for what amount an account has to be rendered.

(8)—Should the Committee have power of itself to remedy abuses, or merely to bring a suit in the Civil Courts with that object? The right to sue only was at first given to the Charity Commissioners in England; but direct power of control was vested in them afterwards in respect to endowments of less than the annual value of £100. In this country a Committee would be met at every step by the plea that the endowment was religious, or that it was purely property.

(9)—Should the Committee be vested with the power conferred on the Charity Commissioners by the Endowed Schools Act, to make schemes for the management of schools without the consent of trustees, and, if so, should the confirmation of Government be required to such schemes, as that of the Privy Council is required at Home?

(10)—In England all endowment funds are vested in the official trustee, and his consent is necessary to the transfer of land. Should the land of all secular endowments be entered in the name of the Committee, and their consent be necessary to the validity of all sales or leases for more than 20 years? There are many complaints in the correspondence of the alienation for private purposes of wakf lands; and these transfers acquire validity by lapse of time. It is alleged that the Civil Courts are inclined to deal leniently with the claims of purchasers of such lands.

(11)—Mr. Beighton suggests that trusts should be placed under Committees elected by local bodies, such as municipalities. He considers the objection that these bodies are Hindu of no great weight.

(12)—Mr. Beighton also proposes to abolish the distinction between public and private trusts, making the latter, like the former, subject to the supervision of the Committee.

(13)—Should power be given to the Courts to dismiss an hereditary matwali for mismanagement? It is understood that this is not done at present.

(14)—Should the Committee be entrusted with the management of the Mohsin Fund, as suggested in our preliminary report?

(15)—From what source are the expenses of the Committee to be met?

(16)—Should District Committees be formed, and, if so, should they be in addition to the Central Committee?

These points, with any other which members may suggest, may, with the consent of the President, be considered at the next meeting of the Committee.

CALCUTTA,

PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA.

The 6th January 1887.—The following Notice is republished for general information.

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

ALL persons proposing to make a pilgrimage to Mecca are hereby warned that they will be required by the Turkish Government to perform quarantine for at least 10 days on the Island of Camaran before being allowed to go on to Jeddah, during which period the pilgrims will have to provide for all their expenses. They should, therefore, make certain, in taking their passages, that the steamer starts so as to arrive at Jeddah in time for the Haj, after making due allowance for the detention at Camaran. During the quarantine at Camaran the Turkish Government require the pilgrims to pay certain fees, besides arranging for their own provisions, and ships which have evaded quarantine are not allowed to land their pilgrims at Jeddah.

Pilgrims are, therefore, warned that before starting they should see that they have sufficient funds for the expenses of quarantine and of the Haj, and for their journey back to India. The Mahomedan Vice-Consul at Jeddah, Abdur Ruzzak, suggests that each pilgrim should have at least Rs. 300 with him when he leaves India, after having paid his passage to Jeddah. No pecuniary assistance can be obtained from the British authorities at Jeddah.

Intending pilgrims should apply to the Protector of Pilgrims, Bombay, and to the Port Officer at other ports, for information as to the latest safe date for sailing.

Secretary to the Government of India.

REPORT OF THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT, BENGAL.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—AGRICULTURE.

Calcutta, the 11th January 1887.

RESOLUTION.

REPORT of the operations of the Agricultural Department of Bengal, from the date of its creation to the end of July 1886.

READ—

A Report from the Director of the Agricultural Department, Bengal, No. 510T, dated 15th October 1886.

The appointment, for a period of two years, of a special officer to advise the Lieutenant-Governor on all matters relating to agriculture and statistics, to undertake preliminary enquiries in connection with the experimental survey in the Patna Division, and to assist in obtaining detailed information required by the Secretary of State as to Government and Wards' estates, was sanctioned by the Government of India in a letter No. 433A, dated the 28th May 1884. On Mr. Finucane's return from furlough at the end of December 1885, he was selected to be the Director of the Agricultural Department for the performance of these duties, and was at first employed mainly on pressing work in connection with the Bill which subsequently was passed as the Bengal Tenancy Act. On the 2nd May 1885 a Resolution was issued, defining, as far as was then possible, the functions of the newly created office. It was stated that Mr. Finucane's work would be of two kinds—agricultural research, including the arrangements for the experimental survey in Mozufferpore district, and for the maintenance of the results obtained by a system of village records, as also the collection of the returns of the prices of food-staples required by the Bengal Tenancy Act; and agricultural improvements, to be undertaken with the co-operation of such societies, as the Agri-Horticultural and the Zoological, of local Committees, and of such landowners or farmers as might be good enough to lend their assistance. In regard to duties of the first class, he was placed under the control of the Board of Revenue, and directed to report to them; while his efforts for agricultural improvement were to be made under the direct orders of Government in the Revenue Department. The services of Mr. Allen, c. s., placed for one year in charge of the Government estates of Shahabad, of Mr. Ambica Churn Sen, c. s., and Mr. Sakhawat Hossein, Deputy Collector, all graduates of the Cirencester College, were placed at his disposal, so far as this could be done without interfering with their other duties. The department thus created was sanctioned for a limited period only, but the Lieutenant-Governor never doubted that its work would be such as to demonstrate the necessity for retaining it as an essential part of the permanent administrative system of Bengal.

2. The present report refers to the period from the date of Mr. Finucane's delegation on special duty, and more particularly from May 1885 to the end of July 1886. Assuming that the department will be retained, the Lieutenant-Governor considers that future annual reports should be for the official year, and that, in so far as they relate to work classified as agricultural research, they should be submitted through the Board of Revenue. This is the more necessary, as it is probable that the department, in its future development, will be mainly employed in the supervision of surveys and settlements—work in which the complete control of the Board is essential.

3. Sir Rivers Thompson has long entertained the opinion that for the adequate protection of the several interests of those connected with land in those provinces, whether as owners, as the holders of intermediate tenures, or as cultivators, legislative measures are by themselves insufficient, and should be supplemented by the preparation and preservation of a full record of rights, founded on an accurate survey. Such a record ensures the punctual collection of rents really due, and at the same time prevents the illegal and irregular exactions which have long impeded agricultural progress in Bengal. In accordance with these views, provision was made in the Bengal Tenancy Act enabling the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, to direct that a survey be made, and a record of rights prepared, in respect of any local area, and an order of the kind contemplated by the law was passed for the survey of all lands included within the external boundaries of pergunnah Guddesswar and Tuppahs Chukla Nye and Butsaleh in the district of Mozufferpore. The operations undertaken were of an experimental nature, to be subsequently extended to a wider area, if found to be successful. Four hundred and thirteen square miles were surveyed up to the end of July, and a record of rights was made in respect to the holdings of 26,123 ryots, classified as follows:—

	No.	Percentage on total.
Cultivating tenure and undertenure-holders ...	12	0·04
Ryots at fixed rates ...	948	3·63
Settled ryots ...	21,750	83·26
Occupancy ryots, but not settled ...	250	0·96
Non-occupancy ryots ...	1,608	6·16
Under-ryots ...	1,555	5·95
	<hr/> 26,123	<hr/> 100·00

4. The result of this tentative measure, so far as it has gone, shows that the average area held by a ryot was three acres. The cost of survey was nearly 9 annas an acre on the area surveyed, but this included certain initial expenses, and the Director of the Agricultural Department estimates that the total cost of survey and settlement would not, at the conclusion of the work, exceed $8\frac{1}{2}$ annas an acre, which he describes as a tenth part of one year's rent—certainly a moderate price to pay for a permanent record securing the interests of all parties. There was neither opposition to the survey, nor friction in carrying it out. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that this work has been ably and successfully executed, under the supervision of the Director of the Agricultural Department, by Colonel Barron and Mr. Edward Collin. It will be of permanent value, both as a monument of local rights, and as a proof that the province generally may be protected by an accurate survey and a record of rights with little trouble, and at a cost moderate in proportion to the area dealt with.

5. In his advocacy of surveys, the Director goes so far as to maintain that, without some such measure, the Bengal Tenancy Act will be altogether inoperative in Behar, and that it will leave the cultivators absolutely at the mercy of the owners of land. He has spoken so strongly on the subject, that it seems necessary to note that his views are not identical with those frequently expressed by the Bengal Government. That no law, unsupported by executive action, can completely and satisfactorily settle the relations between landlord and tenant in that Province is most true; but in supporting this position, it is not necessary to assert that no effect whatever can be produced by the law now administered through the Civil Courts. The latter opinion seems connected with a mistaken view of the origin and nature of the power of the Behar zemindars, who have, in most cases, no feudal or other influence, and derive such strength as they possess entirely from the law. It has frequently been noticed that the proprietors most potent for evil are pleaders, mooktears and other new men, who have recently purchased estates, over the residents on which they neither can nor do possess any influence beyond that which they gain, directly or indirectly, from their legal rights, as construed by the Courts. How extensive these legal powers were appears from the statement made by the Behar Rent Committee of 1879, that an examination of the jumabundee papers of Behar estates showed that less than one per cent. of the ryots had tangible evidence of occupancy rights, and that of the remaining 99 per cent. it was doubtful whether even one could prove the possession of such rights. Those who were not able to show a title as occupancy ryots, that is to say, the main body of the cultivators, were held by the Courts to be either tenants for short periods under leases, or more generally tenants-at-will; and to these the old law gave no power to contest any rent the zemindar might demand, unless they were willing to abandon their holdings. The very completeness of the power which, under the law, the landlord possessed over tenants-at-will, or tenants holding on short leases, obscured its origin, and, as it was not exercised according to law, few could realize that it was founded upon, and supported only by legislative enactments. The zemindars themselves—and they have expressed their views clearly and frequently—have always shown that they understand this position, and have displayed none of the Director's indifference to legal rights. They at least have never failed to realize that their power, however great its extent, and however illegally it might on occasions be exercised, was derived ultimately from the law, and could therefore be altered or diminished by law. The change effected by the new Act is illustrated by the fact that, on the area surveyed, not one per cent., but 88 per cent. of the ryots have proved that they possess occupancy rights, or a position even superior to that of occupancy ryots. Though the Director comments on the limited sale in Mozufferpore of the new forms of receipts for rent, the use of which is a test of the extent to which the Bengal Tenancy Act is being enforced, it appears that no less than 221,800 specimen forms were sold in that district before the end of June 1886, that is within nine months of the introduction of the law, and that purchases were also made for use in the district from private firms in Mozufferpore town and in Calcutta. It may further be noted that what is true about Mozufferpore upon this point is clearly established all over Bengal. The number of holdings in the district of Mozufferpore is not known, but that of agriculturists is 453,570 according to the last census. The Lieutenant-Governor would wish, in the interests of the zemindars as much as in those of the tenants, that the rights and liabilities of all classes under the new order could be ascertained and recorded, as they have been in the selected area; but even without this supplemental work there can be no doubt in his opinion that the Act, which so greatly facilitates the proof of occupancy rights, that is of fixity of tenure at judicial rents, which substitutes the open sale of such rights for eviction in case of default of payment, which withdraws the power of distraint otherwise than through the Courts, and generally curtails the power of the landlord to inflict annoyance under the form of law, will prove a real and substantial defence to the ryots against illegal encroachments. The guzashita and other ryots of Behar, who possessed substantial privileges under the old law, were able to defend their position, and their attitude gives no countenance to the allegation that, when cultivators really have rights capable of proof in court, they nevertheless submit tamely to extortion. In this Sir Rivers Thompson is happy to be able to adopt the language used by the late Secretary of State who, in his despatch No. 24, dated 23rd June 1885, wrote: "Upon the arguments urged against the provisions of the Act from the point of view of the tenant, I would remark that, though the Act may not confer upon the tenants all the advantages to which some may have deemed their class entitled, I have no doubt that it will prove in a high degree beneficial to the ryots generally, especially to the most numerous and important class—the settled ryots—whose claims are also the strongest."

6. A great number of agricultural experiments were made under the skilled supervision of the Cirencester graduates, and with the co-operation of zemindars and cultivators, particularly of the Maharajah of Dumraon, Mr. Burrows of Beheea, and Moulvie Fazl Imam of Patna. A programme of experiments to be tried during the present year has been arranged with the Agricultural and Horticultural Society. In Bengal more, perhaps, than in other parts of India, there exists a large class of educated men connected with agriculture by their daily pursuits, and ready, when properly approached, to work with official experts for the purpose of ascertaining facts, testing supposed improvements, and diffusing useful information. In this respect Bengal is probably the most promising field yet opened to the Agricultural Department. The readiness with which any real improvement is accepted by the ryots in these provinces is illustrated by the fact that they have bought from the department 564 of the ploughs invented by Mr. Sen and Mr. Ritter Von Schwarz, and ordered 400 more, though the instrument has not as yet been perfected, and its sale is therefore not pushed. As instances of successful experiment, the Director makes the following remarks:—

“As examples of what may be effected in this way, it may be here mentioned that Mr. Sen's report shows that in the Burdwan Division oil-cake is largely used by ryots as a manure in the cultivation of paddy with excellent results, while in many other parts of the country the practice is unknown. Similarly, the system of green manuring by ploughing in a crop of indigo, sunn, or dhuinchi, of which a good deal has been written, is found to be actually practised by ryots in parts of Burdwan and Hooghly, in the Jamalpore sub-division of Mymensingh, and it may be practised in other places also. Again, the Mauritius system of cultivating sugarcane, the superior advantages of which have been tested by experience and strongly recommended by Messrs. Mylne and Thompson of Beheea, is known and practised on the banks of the Damoodar and among the market gardeners in the neighbourhoods of Dacca and Calcutta. All the practices just mentioned are, on the other hand, unknown in the Bhagulpore and in the greater part of the Patna Divisions. A special department, even if it eschewed western innovations on existing practices altogether, can do much good by introducing in such places as Bhagulpore and Patna the practices proved by experience to be beneficial in Burdwan or Mymensingh. To take another example of the same thing, it may be mentioned that efforts have from time to time been made to improve the quality of Bengal wheat, by introducing seed from Mozuffernagar and Delhi in ignorance of the fact that the very best wheat in all India, known as Buxar No. 1 club, is largely produced and exported from the Buxar and Sasseram sub-divisions of Shahabad in Behar. This species was appraised by the Committee of the Calcutta Wheat and Trades' Association, and was compared with the grain produced in the neighbouring division of Bhagulpore, and found to be 4 annas per maund superior to the latter in value. The Buxar seed was accordingly introduced into Bhagulpore, and yielded a grain described by the Committee of the Wheat and Trades' Association to be a “splendid description of wheat—soft, mellow, bold, regular, and of good colour”—and 6 annas a maund superior in value to the local Bhagulpore grain. Applications for some hundreds of maunds of Buxar seed have since been received from various landholders in the Bhagulpore and other divisions for experimental cultivation of species. Here inquiry and knowledge of the facts elicited by it has shown the way to one very tangible and important improvement.”

7. Mr. Allen, in his valuable report attached to that of the Director, notices that the sole exception to the preservation by the cultivators of all sources of manure is the waste of bones, the best substance for restoring the phosphoric acid which every crop takes out of the soil. The bones were formerly suffered to lie where they might be of some little use, but are now collected gratuitously, ground into meal at Bally and elsewhere, and exported to Europe to the great detriment of Indian agriculture. Mr. Allen writes:—

“The only way to bring home to him (the cultivator) the folly of wasting this manure is to shew the improved outturn from crops which have been manured with bones. The quickest means of rendering bones soluble and effective is to dissolve them in acid, but the process is too costly for adoption by the ordinary farmer. Accordingly, I proceeded to ferment bones in various places, and these will be applied to crops not only at the demonstration farms under my charge, but in a number of villages under the Court of Wards. It is to be hoped that the increased outturn, and the ease with which this manure can be prepared, may overcome caste prejudices, but of this it would be unwise to speak too confidently. In one case I induced an intelligent zemindar, Moulvie Fazlar Rahman of Dunri, to manure his beet-root with some bones which he had buried some years ago. The result was that he obtained finer roots than he had grown heretofore, but they were literally unsaleable in the local bazar solely because they had been manured with bone. No such prejudice was shown at Arrah against the wheat which I had grown there on land similarly treated, so the experiments will be continued with the field crops, though the effect of bones is usually more apparent when applied as in Europe to root crops.”

8. Greater success has been obtained in the Burdwan district, as stated in the following passage of the Director's report:—

“Bone-meal was distributed in small quantities among selected talookdars in Burdwan, and was used as manure on rice and other crops with beneficial results. Brahmins are now glad to take it in their cloths, with their own hands, though perfectly aware of what it is they are taking. The pundits have declared that there is no harm in their doing so. Already small quantities of this manure have been purchased by ryots and talookdars, who have had an opportunity of observing the benefits resulting from the use of it, and Mr. Sen reports that there will be no difficulty in disposing of large quantities of it, for manureal purposes, when the next paddy crop is being sown.”

9. Owing to the absence of a village agency—a want which affects the Government of Bengal in every effort towards administrative reform—it is impossible to prepare for Bengal returns of the area sown with each crop, as is done in other provinces.

On the other hand, the residence in the interior of almost every district of skilled men engaged in agriculture or trade, and willing to supply information, enables the Director to afford, as to the probable outturn of crops, information of the character on which traders are accustomed to act. His forecast of the jute crop, founded on the reports of some hundreds of skilled correspondents, has been favourably noticed by the Dundee Chamber of Commerce. He also supplied a valuable report on wheat and its adulteration, which may be of use in the trade.

10. An Agricultural Show was held at Dumraon, in the district of Shahabad, in February 1885, and another at Burrahপুর, in the same neighbourhood, in February 1886. Of the first of these annual gatherings, the Director writes:—

“One useful result which followed the Dumraon Agricultural Exhibition was that the Maharajah of Dumraon, with a laudable desire to test the value of improved methods of cultivation, opened out on his sirat lands the experimental farm already described.

“There was considerable competition in exhibits of grain, millets, pulses, and oil-seeds.

“The ryots at the Exhibition asked for samples of the best varieties of some grains which were not produced locally, viz., white varieties of linseed, gram, janera, and peas, and some fine qualities of paddy. They also took much interest in the awards for wheat, and on the recurrence of a similar Exhibition last cold weather in the neighbourhood at Barrahপুর, some of the ryots who had received prizes at this Exhibition, but failed to do so at Barrahপুর, questioned the propriety of the awards and seemed to be keenly interested in the results. If these Exhibitions are continued, and the cultivation of the better kinds of grain is thus fostered in Shahabad,—the district which has taken the lead of all others in attempts at agricultural improvement,—the cultivators on Government estates may be induced to grow pidgree wheat for seed alone.”

As to the second, he states:—

“An Agricultural Exhibition was held at Barrahপুর near Dumraon at the end of February 1886, and as I was present at it myself, I can testify to its having been a successful one. It was largely attended; the ryots took much interest in the proceedings. Mr. Power, the Collector, Mr. Jenkins, the Sub-divisional Officer, Mr. Allen, and the Executive Committee, took great pains in organizing this Exhibition, which they attended at much personal inconvenience. It was held in connection with a local mêla in a somewhat out-of-the-way place, and was not accompanied by any of the social festivities which sometimes make these gatherings attractive.”

11. Sir Rivers Thompson hopes to be able to attend the Show which is to be held at Dumraon next February, and to judge for himself as to the utility of what under the Maharajah's auspices has become an annual institution. Under skilled supervision, and when supported by the public, such Shows produce excellent results, in diffusing agricultural knowledge, and in attracting the sympathy of the wealthy and intelligent classes to the details of the most general and indispensable of industrial pursuits.

12. An Exhibition took place at Kissengunge, in Purneah, in January 1886, at which there was a ready sale for axes, sickles and bill-hooks exhibited by Messrs. T. E. Thomson and Company. A demand has since arisen for the seed of superior class of potatoes exhibited. There were Exhibitions also organised without European aid in the Backergunge and Noakhally districts.

13. The Lieutenant-Governor desires to thank Mr. Finucane for zealous efforts in starting the Agricultural Department in Bengal and his efficient management of it since its establishment. Messrs. Allen, Collin, and Sen have materially contributed to its success by their co-operation. He also notices with pleasure the favourable mention made by the Director of the services rendered by gentlemen unconnected with the department.

METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL SUMMARY OF THE PROVINCE OF BENGAL FOR THE MONTH OF DECEMBER 1886.

THE meteorology of the month of December in Bengal is usually very simple, the conditions being almost identical with those which obtain during the preceding month of November. North-east monsoon normal conditions are present in their most complete form in Bengal during the months of December and January.

The normal features of the month of December are diminishing temperature, increasing pressure, cloudless skies, great dryness of the air in the day-time, a very considerable range in the daily temperature, and the prevalence of light northerly winds with a westerly element which increases in amount westwards from Central Bengal to Behar.

The normal weather of the month is subject to two classes of interruptions or disturbances. The first class are originated by the occurrence of cyclonic storms in the Bay, most usually at this time of the year in the south of the Bay. They affect the weather in Bengal indirectly in the manner explained in the November monthly review. Temperature rises, the air becomes more humid, especially in the coast districts, the dry land winds are replaced by variable local winds or by light sea winds, skies become clouded, and showers, if the storm is extensive, fall in South Bengal and Orissa. The effects of these storms are usually smaller in December than in November, as they are generally formed further south, and are also, as a rule, less extensive and intense than the November cyclones. The second class of disturbances are due to the entrance into or passage through the Province of cold weather barometric depressions. These usually (so far as is at present known) take their origin in Upper or Central India, and frequently, if not invariably, drift slowly eastwards or south-eastwards, gradually filling up as they advance. Many of them enter Behar, and some of them pass through Bengal, and fill up finally to the east of Bengal. The largest proportion of the rainfall of December, January, and February in Northern and Central India, and probably much of the snowfall of the Himalayas, accompanies the formation and march of these depressions. During their existence in Bengal, they usually give low barometer, clouded skies, light to moderate rain, diminished day and increased night temperature, and increased mean daily temperature. They are followed by fine dry clear weather, and greatly diminished night temperature, and a considerable reduction of the mean temperature.

The normal average rainfall of the month is small for all districts. The average for Orissa and East Bengal is between four and five-tenths of an inch. It varies between one and three-tenths in the remaining divisions.

Meteorological summary of the month.—The weather conditions in the province were approximately normal during the month. A small storm or cyclone formed in the Bay on the 7th after the prevalence of squally weather over the south of the Bay for some days. It advanced a little to the north of west, and struck the Madras coast on the afternoon or evening of the 9th, and shortly afterwards disappeared. The usual changes occurred in Bengal, where skies began to cloud over on the 7th or 8th, the change extending slowly from the coast districts to the interior. Skies were heavily clouded or overcast throughout the province on the 9th and 10th. The southern districts of Orissa received moderate rain on these two days, and also on the 11th and 12th. Light to moderate general rain fell on the 12th in the western districts of South-West Bengal, due to the same disturbance, and in nearly every district of Behar. Whether this was due to the same general disturbance, or to the entrance of a cold-weather depression into Behar from Upper India, cannot be determined from the Bengal observations only. So far as can be judged, it was a small local disturbance subsidiary, due partly to the general disturbance, and partly to local meteorological conditions in Behar. From this period to the end of the month fine clear weather prevailed. But apparently there was much slight disturbance in Upper India, as the winds in Bengal were unusually light and unsteady in character, and the temperature (more especially the night temperature) considerably above the average.

Pressure.—The fluctuations of the barometer during the greater part of the month have been such as always occur during fine clear weather. The disturbance in the Bay from the 7th to the 10th influenced pressure very slightly, and that chiefly in Orissa. Pressure fell generally from the 9th to the 13th, but after the effect of the general disturbance due to the cyclone in the Bay passed away, pressure oscillated slowly and within narrow limits during the remainder of the month. The mean pressure of the month varies very slightly from the normal mean pressure. It was $\cdot 01''$ less than the normal for False Point and Saugor Island (which were most influenced by the cyclone) and slightly more than $\cdot 01''$ in excess for the North Behar stations and Dacca. It was practically normal at all other stations (except perhaps Gya).

Temperature.—The chief feature of the month has been the considerable excess of temperature, an indirect effect of the cyclone in the Bay, and of the slightly disturbed or abnormal weather in Upper India. The increase was, as is usual in December, shown more in the night than in the day temperature. The following table gives data for eight representative stations, and shews more fully and exactly than a verbal description would do, the variation of the temperature in different parts of the province week by week from the mean temperature proper to the period :—

The mean temperature of North Behar during the month was 2½° above the normal; of North Behar, Orissa, and South-West Bengal 2°; of Chutia Nagpur 1½°; and of East Bengal 1°.

Rainfall.—General rain fell during the period from the 9th to the 18th, due primarily to the cyclonic disturbance in the Bay. The Pooree and Cuttack districts received rain on every day of that period; Behar (excepting the Monghyr district) on the 12th, and the Chumparun district also on the 11th. Light showers fell in the 24-Pergunnahs and Midnapore district, and in the most northern districts of North Bengal on the 12th. A few very light local showers of no importance fell in other districts. The rainfall was above the average in Orissa, which received one inch (double its normal amount), and in North Behar, which obtained an average of four-tenths—three times its normal amount. These increased averages were, however, chiefly due to unusually heavy rainfall (for the month) in the Pooree district, which received an average of 2.8 inches, and the Chumparun and Sarun districts, which received 1.05 inches and .53 inch respectively. The rainfall in the whole of Bengal, in Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar was less than a tenth of an inch, and practically nil.

ALCUTTA, the 11th January 1887.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 7TH OF JANUARY 1887.

The chief feature of the meteorology of the past week was the passage through the province of a cold-weather depression. So far as can be determined from the India weather telegrams sent from Simla daily, this depression originated in the south of Rajpootana or in Central India. It began to affect the weather in Bengal on Thursday afternoon. The barometer fell rather rapidly from that time, and skies began to cloud over on Friday. The central depression appears to have passed through the northern districts of Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, the northern and central districts of South-West Bengal into East Bengal, where it either filled up, or from whence it advanced into North Burmah. It gave overcast skies, thunderstorms, and moderate general rain on the 7th and 8th to Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, and the greater part of Bengal.

Pressure was either normal or slightly below the average at the commencement of the week. It oscillated irregularly, but showed a general tendency to fall during the week, due apparently to some action external to the province. A rapid fall occurred on Friday, which was most marked in South Behar and the central districts of South-West Bengal. Pressure has therefore been below the average during the week, and the defect was very considerable at the end of the week. The mean pressure of the week was '06" in defect in South Behar and a part of South-West Bengal (represented by Burdwan and Calcutta), '05" in Orissa and North Behar, and from '02" to '04" over the remainder of the province.

Temperature was approximately normal from the beginning of the week until the 6th. The formation of cloud and the increased humidity of the air, which accompanied the advance of the depression into Bengal, caused a very considerable increase in the night temperature of the 6th and 7th, and a much smaller increase in the maximum day temperature. The mean temperature of the week is hence generally in excess. The excess averaged 2.8° in Chutia Nagpur, 1.7° in South Behar, and 1° in South-West Bengal and Orissa. The mean temperature of the week was either normal, or slightly in defect in East and North Bengal and North Behar.

The following table gives data for eight representative stations in different districts of the province :—

The greater part of the rainfall accompanying this disturbance fell after 6 P.M. of Friday, and hence the total amounts due to the disturbance will appear in the next report. The rainfall of the 7th was very general in Chutia Nagpur, which received an average of .5 inch, and in South Behar which obtained an average of .24 inch. The southern districts of North Bengal, and the Moorshedabad and Beerbhoom districts, received average amounts varying between .05 inch and .03 inch. The rainfall of the week in other districts was either very small in amount or nil. Protabgunj, in North Bhagulpore, reports 7.43 inches on the 7th, but this is most probably a mistake and is being investigated. Nanihat (in the Sonthar Pergunnah) and Perozapore (in Backergunge) each received 1.2 inches on the 7th, and Hazariabagh 1.16 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday the 7th January 1887 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph. The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The month of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of former years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·3° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

MEMORANDUM.

The principal Municipalities in Bengal presented, during the week ending 18th December 1886, a birth-rate of 26·5 per 1,000 of population against very nearly the same proportion, viz., 26·8 per 1,000 in the preceding week ending 11th December, and a death-rate of 41·4 against 44·7 per 1,000, indicating a large decrease in the registration of the events.

2. The following Municipalities furnished the highest proportions of births and deaths:—

Births.		Deaths.
	Ratio per mille.		Ratio per mille.
Comillah	57·7	Naraingunge	82·8
Chittagong	47·1	Serampore	80·5

		Mozufferpore	37·7
		Durbhanga	36·2
		Howrah	35·5
		Monghyr	30·7
		Burdwan	30·5

3. The subjoined table indicates that, as compared with the outcome of the preceding week, there was a sensible abatement in the death-rates from cholera and fever, while the fatal results from the other diseases exhibited fractional variations:

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending—
	18th December 1886.	11th December 1886.
Cholera	10·0	11·7
Small-pox	...	·03
Fever	15·2	16·6
Bowel-complaints	6·9	6·3
Injury	·4	·3
Other causes	9·9	9·7

4. Excluding small-pox, from which no death was reported to have occurred, and injury, the mortality from which was nowhere high, the rest of the maladies above specified exhibited greatest severity in the following Municipalities:—

Cholera.		Fever.		Bowel-complaints.		Other causes.
	Ratio per mille.		Ratio per mille.		Ratio per mille.		Ratio per mille.

Mozuff pore	6·1

It will be noticed that the mortality from cholera in the Naraingunge and Bali towns, although yet high, was considerably below that of the preceding week, and that the same disease prevailed in the Santipore town with greater severity.

5. Distributed under the heads of Sex, Class and Age, the mortality of the week under review stood as follows:—

According to Sex.		According to Class.		According to Age.

4. That the above mentioned death-causes (excepting small-pox from which no death was reported, and injury the casualties from which were nowhere large) caused the greatest loss of life in the following Municipalities :—

Cholera.		Fever.		Bowel-complaints.		Other causes.

It will be observed that, in comparison with the preceding week, cholera prevailed with added severity in the Naraingunge Municipality.

That the death-rates, in relation to Sex, Class and Age, were returned at the rates noted below :—

The Inspector shall also be Secretary to the Commission, and he shall attend the office and keep such registers and accounts as the Commission may direct under rule III.

VI.—The Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police, which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

(3) After notice has been given by the Commissioners to the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler to which the certificate relates that they have cancelled or suspended it.

XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—removed for a complete examination of the boiler in every part.

(b)—An ordinary inspection made at any time when the Inspector has reason to believe the boiler is being improperly worked or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

Act, s. 63. A commanding officer shall, upon an investigation being made into a charge against a person subject to this Act and under his command of having committed an offence under this Act, dismiss the charge if he thinks that it ought not to be proceeded with; but when he thinks the charge ought to be proceeded with he shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, take steps without delay for bringing the offender to trial.

III 64. When a person subject to this Act, who is accused of an offence cognizable under this Act, is within the jurisdiction of any civil, political or police officer, that officer shall aid in the arrest of the person upon an application to that effect made by the commanding

Arrest through civil power.

Execution of Sentences of Indian Marine Courts and Commanding Officers.

65. (1) Every term of imprisonment, whether original, mitigated or commuted, undergone in pursuance of the sentence of an Indian Marine Court or of a commanding officer shall, except as provided in sub-section (2), be deemed to commence on the day on which the original sentence was signed by the president of the Court or pronounced by the commanding officer.

(2) When a person already undergoing a sentence of penal servitude, transportation or imprisonment is sentenced by an Indian Marine Court to imprisonment, that imprisonment shall commence at the expiration of the penal servitude, transportation or imprisonment to which he has previously been sentenced: [Act X of 1882, s. 397.]

Provided that when under this sub-section, at the expiration of a term of imprisonment to which a person has been sentenced otherwise than under section 32, sub-section (2), another term of imprisonment to which he has been similarly sentenced commences and the aggregate term of imprisonment to which he would be thus liable would, as reckoned from the commencement of his imprisonment, exceed two years, so much of that term as is in excess of two years shall be deemed to be remitted.

66. (1) A person sentenced by an Indian Marine Court to imprisonment shall be detained in the prescribed custody until he is transferred to a prison.

(2) A person sentenced as aforesaid shall, as soon as practicable, be transferred to a prison in British India appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council, and shall be delivered over with a warrant of commitment in the prescribed form signed by the prescribed officer to the officer in charge of that prison.

(3) A person transferred to a prison under this section shall thereafter be dealt with in all respects as if he were detained in that prison under a sentence of a Criminal Court:

Provided that—

(a) when he is a person sentenced to imprisonment by his commanding officer the commanding officer, or the Director of Marine, may at any time by order in writing direct that he be discharged;

PROVISIONS OF CIVIL LAW.

Exemption from Process.

[Army Act, s. 144.] 71. (1) A person below the position of gazetted officer shall not, while subject to this Act, be liable to be taken out of the Indian Marine Service by any process, execution or order of any Court of law, or otherwise, or be compelled to appear in person before any Court of law except in respect of the following matters, or one of them, that is to say:—
(a) on account of a criminal charge or conviction;
(b) on account of a decree for money, when the amount exceeds three hundred rupees over and above the costs of the suit.

[Army Act, s. 144 (5); Act V of 1869, Part III (b).] (2) The Judge of any such Court may examine into any complaint made by any such person, or his superior officer, of the arrest of the person contrary to the provisions of this section, and may by order under his hand discharge the person, and award reasonable costs to the complainant, who may recover those costs as he might have recovered costs awarded to him by a decree against the person obtaining the process.

* 72. The clothes, equipment or arms of a person Property which cannot be seized, nor shall the pay (b.)] and allowances or any part thereof of any such person below the position of a gazetted officer be attached, in any proceeding against him or any person whom he may represent, by any Court of Civil Judicature.

Property of Deceased Persons and Deserters.

73. The following rules are enacted respecting [Act V of 1869, s. 176 to 178.] the disposal of the property of any person subject to this Act who dies or deserts:—

(1) The commanding officer shall secure all the moveable property that is on the spot and cause an inventory thereof to be made.

(2) In the case of a deceased person, if his representative is on the spot and gives security for the payment of the ship and service debts of the deceased, the commanding officer shall deliver over the property to that representative.

(3) In the case of a deceased person, if the property is not dealt with under clause (2), and in the case of every deserter, the commanding officer shall cause the property to be sold by public auction, and from the proceeds of the sale shall pay the ship and service debts and, in the case of a deceased person, the expenses of his funeral ceremonies.

(4) The surplus, if any, shall in the case of a deceased person be paid to his representative.

(5) In the event of no claim for the surplus of a deceased person's estate being established within twelve months after his death, and immediately after the sale of the effects of a deserter, the amount remaining in the hands of the commanding officer shall be remitted to the prescribed officer.

(6) Property deliverable or money payable to the representative of a deceased person under this section may, if the value or amount thereof does not exceed one thousand rupees and the Director of Marine or the prescribed officer thinks fit, be delivered or paid to any person appearing to him to be entitled to receive it or to administer the estate of the deceased without requiring the production of any probate, letters of administration, certificate or other such conclusive evidence of title; and such delivery or payment shall be a full discharge to those ordering or making the same and to the Secretary of State for India in Council from all further liability in respect of the property or money; but nothing in this section shall affect the rights of any executor or administrator or other representative or of any creditor of a deceased person against a person to whom any such delivery or payment has been made.

(7) A person shall be deemed to have deserted within the meaning of this section who has been convicted of desertion, or who has been absent without leave for a period of thirty days from Her Majesty's Indian Marine Service, and has not subsequently surrendered or been apprehended.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Marine Service, as stated in the preamble to the Indian Marine Service Act, 1884 (47 & 48 Vic. c. 38), "is employed under the direction of the Governor General of India in Council for the transport of troops, the guarding of convict settlements, the suppression of piracy, the survey of coasts and harbours, the visiting of lighthouses, the relief of distressed or wrecked vessels, and other local objects, and is maintained out of the revenues of India."

The members of that service, as stated in the same preamble, are not subject either to the Naval Discipline Act, 1866, or to the Merchant Shipping Acts; and as some of them are persons whom the Governor General's Council was not empowered to bind by its enactments except when they might be within certain local limits, the special Act of Parliament just referred to was passed to enable the Governor General's Council to legislate for them.

2. The leading provisions of that Act are recited in the preamble to the Bill, and may be roughly described as empowering the Governor General's Council to pass an Act containing penal provisions similar to those of the Naval Discipline Act, which will be in force against the members of the Indian Marine Service as long as the vessels to which they belong are within Indian waters, that is to say, between the Cape of Good Hope on the west and the Straits of Magellan on the east.

3. Passing over the first chapter of the Bill, which contains definitions and other preliminary matter, it will be found that the second chapter, which deals with "Offences and Punishments," is made up almost altogether of provisions based on those of Parts I and III of the Naval Discipline Act. It should be explained that, having regard to the peculiar wording of the Indian Marine Service Act, it has been thought safest in adopting these provisions of the Naval Discipline Act to adhere very closely to their form; and the result is that it has been necessary to use terms and forms of expression which are not usually to be found in the Acts of the Governor General's Council.

4. It will be observed that the chapter contains no provisions corresponding to those of the Naval Discipline Act headed "Misconduct in the presence of the enemy" and "Communications with the enemy." The vessels of the Indian Marine Service are not likely to be in presence of an enemy except in conjunction with vessels of the Royal Navy, and then, under the sixth section of the Indian Marine Service Act, they could be placed under the command of the senior Naval Officer, and those serving on them brought under the Naval Discipline Act.

5. The section (30) which deals with "offences punishable by ordinary law" has, for the reason mentioned in paragraph 3, been drawn in strict conformity with section 45 of the Naval Discipline Act, that is to say, it makes those offences punishable under the law of England when they cannot properly be dealt with as "acts to the prejudice of good order and discipline not otherwise specified." This might seem to be likely to lead to difficulty; but the occasions for applying the law of England will be extremely rare. The vast majority of the persons to whom the Bill applies will be Native subjects of Her Majesty, who, wherever they may be beyond the limits of British India, are, under section 8 of Act XXI of 1879, amenable to the criminal law of British India, and they could accordingly be dealt with under that law in all cases in which the offence could not properly be dealt with as an act to the prejudice of good order and discipline.

6. The punishments which can be inflicted under the Bill (section 31) correspond with those which can be inflicted under the Naval Discipline Act, section 52, corporal punishment, however, being omitted.

7. In Chapter III, relating to jurisdiction and powers, the Indian legislature is free from the trammels of the Naval Discipline Act, and the provisions proposed, being new, must stand on their own merits.

The most striking feature of the chapter is that, instead of making all offences under the Bill triable by a special professional Court, as under the Army Act and Naval Discipline Act, it calls in the aid of the ordinary Criminal Courts, including (section 2, clause (8)) the Courts of officers of the political service in places beyond British India.

It is proposed (section 35) that certain offences should be triable by the Indian Marine Courts to be presently referred to, that others again should be triable by the ordinary Criminal Courts, and that as regards others again both classes of Courts should have concurrent jurisdiction.

8. Section 36 provides in effect that a Criminal Court may pass a sentence of death, penal servitude, transportation or imprisonment, if such a sentence is within its ordinary powers; and that a Marine Court may pass any sentence authorised by the Bill except a sentence of death, penal servitude, transportation or imprisonment for a term exceeding two years.

9. Section 37 empowers a commanding officer, subject to regulations to be made by the Governor General in Council, to try in a summary manner offences committed by persons below the grade of gazetted officer and triable by a Marine Court, and, subject to any restrictions which the Governor General in Council may impose, to pass a sentence of three months' imprisonment on a person below the position of petty officer, and disrate any petty officer or person of inferior rank.

10. Section 38 provides that in cases in which the Criminal Court and the Marine Court have concurrent jurisdiction the Director of Marine, or in certain cases the commanding officer, may decide before which Court the prosecution is to take place, but that if the offence is one punishable by the ordinary law, and the Criminal Court is of opinion that the offence should be tried before itself, a reference shall be made to the Governor General in Council.

11. Section 41 provides for the delivering up to the Criminal Court of a person subject to the Act who is accused of an offence over which that Court would have jurisdiction apart from the Bill, as, for instance, when such a person is accused of an offence punishable by the ordinary law and committed in British India, or where a Native Indian subject is accused of a like offence committed anywhere. If, however, the facts constituting the offence also constitute an offence triable by a Marine Court, the commanding officer is empowered to require a reference to be made to the Governor General in Council before delivering up the accused.

12. Chapter IV deals with Marine Courts. It is based for the most part on provisions of the Naval Discipline Act, the Army Act and the Native Articles of War, details, however, being left to be provided for by rules framed under section 80. A Marine Court, except in detached situations, where an immediate example is necessary, must (section 46) consist of not less than three first grade officers, the president being a commander. The finding or sentence of the Court is not valid (section 57) except in so far as it may be confirmed by higher authority. Section 58 applies the Indian Evidence Act to Marine Courts subject to such modifications or additional rules of evidence as the Governor General in Council may direct.

13. Chapter V contains certain supplemental criminal provisions. The only one of them which appears to call for special notice is section 68, which provides that nothing in the Act shall affect any rules, regulations, conditions or customs of the service under which a person may be liable—

(a) to dismissal, loss of seniority, disrating or forfeiture; or

(b) to any restriction not amounting to custody, or any deprivation of indulgence or additional duty, imposed in the way of discipline.

As regards (a) there appears to be no sufficient reason for treating the Indian Marine differently from any other branch of the public service. In cases where the penalties in question are clearly deserved and are sufficient, the superior executive authorities can safely impose them; while in cases which are doubtful, or in which more severe penalties are called for, they can resort to judicial proceedings under the Bill.

As regards (b) no legislative warrant seems to be required for withholding leave to go on shore, for stopping a man's allowance of spirits or subjecting him to extra watches or drill; and it seems preferable to leave such punishments to be imposed as a matter of discipline by mere executive authority than to confer, as has in some instances been done, a vague power to prescribe "minor punishments".

14. The provisions of Chapter VI, exempting persons subject to the Act from certain civil process and providing for the disposal of the property of deceased persons and deserters, are based on enactments contained in the Army Act or Native Articles of War; and the only one of them which appears to call for explanation is clause (6) of section 73, which, following precedents to be found in the Government Savings Banks Act, 1873, the Regimental Debts Act and elsewhere, admits of property of a deceased person which does not exceed one thousand rupees in value being delivered to a person appearing to be his representative without putting the estate to the expense of procuring probate, administration or other conclusive evidence of title. As is usual in such cases, the rights of third parties against the person to whom the property is so delivered are saved; and the persons delivering the property and the Government are indemnified.

SURVEY OF THE TOWN OF CALCUTTA.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS, in presenting the report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for a survey of the Town of Calcutta, said that the modifications which had been introduced into the Bill were explained in some detail in the report of the Committee*. The principal change which had been made was in the sections which provided for the procedure to be adopted in the case of boundary disputes. It was to be hoped that such disputes would not be numerous; but in the event of a dispute occurring, the Bill, as it originally stood, provided that the Superintendent of Survey should enquire into and decide them. It was intended that the survey should be carried out by a Superintendent of Survey—an officer of the professional Survey Department—and that he should be assisted by a civil officer of the standing of a Deputy Collector; and it was considered that the Assistant Superintendent would be the officer best qualified to decide all boundary disputes at the time they occurred, subject to an appeal either to the Board of Revenue, or to any other authority the Local Government might appoint. The only other point to which he need refer was as to the section relating to boundary marks. The provisions of the Bengal Survey Act V of 1875, regulating boundary marks, were somewhat elaborate and very stringent. The Superintendent had power to order the erection of temporary or permanent boundary marks, and he had power to instruct the zemindars, talukdars, and other landholders to keep up, maintain, or preserve those boundary marks, and he had power also to apportion the expense of erecting and maintaining those boundary marks among the proprietors and occupiers of lands. The Committee had only reproduced these provisions in section 18 of the Bill so far as to allow the Superintendent to erect either temporary or permanent boundary marks, and to allow him to require the occupier of land to maintain any temporary boundary marks which might be put up until the survey had been completed and finished. The Committee had not introduced any provision for the maintenance by owners or occupiers of land of permanent boundary marks. It appeared to them that in such a survey as this the Calcutta authorities should naturally and properly be charged with this duty, and not the owners or occupiers of land; and that the Government and the Municipality, according as those authorities were interested in the maintenance of those permanent boundaries, should be charged with the expense.

Then, in section 20, the Committee had introduced some small modifications. To allow only one month to elapse after the complete survey as the time during which the papers might be inspected was too short a period, and might inconvenience all parties interested; therefore the Committee had provided, following the principle adopted by the Municipal Commissioners in the valuation of the town, that when the survey of any portion of the town was completed, the maps and papers should be deposited in the office of the Commissioners; and they had also extended the period for examining the papers and lodging objections from one month to two months. He moved that the report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The HON. MR. HARRISON said that, as the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta was deeply interested in the subject of this Bill, he need make no apology for having carefully examined the provisions of the Bill in order to ascertain whether there was anything in it which seemed to require amendment for the convenience or in the interests of the people of the town. The result was the series of four amendments, of which he had given notice, only one of which touched any important question of principle; and as regards that particular amendment, he believed that the intention of the Bill and of his own amendment was identical; and if that was so, it was merely a question of wording.

The first amendment which he had to move was that in section 12 for "the Chairman of the Corporation, the arbitrator or one of the arbitrators," be substituted "the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or Surveyor of the Corporation, one of the arbitrators, unless the parties agree to such officer being appointed sole arbitrator." He wished to add the Vice-Chairman or the Surveyor because in some cases that might be considered necessary in the interests of the Corporation, especially the inclusion of the Surveyor, who was the professional adviser of the Corporation in such matters. The meaning of the last portion of the amendment was this. The wording of the section as it stood in the Bill might be misunderstood. It was as follows:—

"Provided that, if it appears to the Assistant Superintendent that the Local Government or the Corporation of Calcutta is interested in any such dispute, he shall appoint, in the former case, the Collector or Deputy Collector of Calcutta, and in the latter case, the Chairman of the Corporation, the arbitrator or one of the arbitrators."

This left it to the Assistant Superintendent to appoint the Collector of Calcutta, or the Chairman of the Corporation, the arbitrator or one of the arbitrators at his discretion. Mr. HARRISON hardly thought it wise that this power should rest in the Assistant Superintendent of Survey, because it might deter some people from going to arbitration who might otherwise be glad to do so. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman and the Surveyor of the Corporation were interested on behalf of the Municipality, and might be said to be judges in their own cause; and it was not desirable that the parties should be placed in the position of possibly finding any of these authorities appointed sole arbitrator without their consent: they might be appointed one of the arbitrators, unless the parties agreed to a sole arbitrator, which, in some cases, the parties interested might be willing to do. His main object was that they should not be bound to this sole arbitration without their consent.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said he had no objection to the amendment. He would have been very glad to have had the assistance of his hon. friend in the Select Committee; but knowing how much his time was taken up with the multifarious duties he had to perform, he had not pressed him to join the Committee. With regard to what had been said as to appointing the Collector of Calcutta or the Chairman of the Corporation sole judge, he did not think the wording of the section, if properly understood, would justify that conclusion, because it really meant that, when the parties applied for arbitration, and nominated on their own behalf one or more arbitrators, in that event the Assistant Superintendent might appoint either the Collector or Deputy Collector, or the Chairman of the Corporation, arbitrator on the other side. It would only be with the assent of all the parties concerned that such officer could be appointed the sole arbitrator. As, however, the amendment which his hon. friend had proposed made that clear, Mr. REYNOLDS was quite willing to accept it.

The HON. MR. ANUNDO MOHUN BOSE said, with regard to the latter part of the amendment, that the wording suggested would perhaps make the intention of the section clearer; but as to the first part of it, he thought it would be better that the Surveyor of the Corporation should be left out, and he suggested this omission in the amendment for the consideration of the Council. Reasons had been given in the Report of the Select Committee to show that the officer whose duty it would be to decide cases of disputed boundary should not be a professional gentleman, as it was considered that the decision of matters which were in the nature of judicial proceedings would be better left in the hands of a judicial officer instead of to a professional gentleman of the Survey Department. The same principle would apply to the case of the Surveyor to the Corporation, who was a professional gentleman. For the present Surveyor Mr. ANUNDO MOHUN BOSE had the highest regard. He believed he was a Civil Engineer, and the reasons which had influenced the Select Committee to transfer all judicial investigations from the Superintendent to the Assistant Superintendent would apply fully in this case also. Then there was another fact, viz., that the Surveyor, if appointed an arbitrator, might very often have to sit in appeal on his own proceedings, because the boundaries would generally be laid down by the Corporation with the advice of the Surveyor himself. To place him in such a position would not be fair to the Surveyor. Therefore, he thought it would be better to include the Vice-Chairman in addition to only the Chairman as it stood in the section, but not to include the Surveyor.

The HON. MR. HARRISON said he was quite willing to leave the matter in the hands of the Council, but he thought the Surveyor was the officer whose experience particularly qualified him to act as arbitrator on behalf of the Corporation. He had charge of all the records, and much of his time was given to the consideration of this question of boundaries, and he was well acquainted with the rights of the Corporation. He was one of the officers who were specially mentioned in the section of the Municipal Act which selected certain officers for special privileges, and he was an officer appointed with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor and in some respects he would be a better officer to select than the Vice-Chairman. Looking to the standing of the officer, who was equal to a Deputy Collector, and was generally better paid,

MR. HARRISON thought there were good grounds for including him in this section.

The HON. MR. HARRISON'S amendment was then put to the vote and carried.

The HON. MR. HARRISON said he had an amendment to move in section 22, the object of which he would explain briefly. It embodied a question of principle which he was justified in saying the Hon. Member in charge of the Bill accepted and considered to be the principle of the present section, but MR. HARRISON doubted whether, as at present worded, it would effect its purpose. The question was this: It was important that the effect of the survey, after it had been completed, should be final. And it was more than important in the interests of the Corporation, who were paying a portion of the cost of the survey; because in the case of boundary disputes they could not at present appeal to the old survey with any advantage. The main object of the Corporation was to prevent small encroachments on the roads whenever an owner rebuilt his house or a portion of it. There were some streets in which such encroachments had been successfully made, and valuable portions of the public streets had thus been appropriated by private individuals. The whole of Calcutta was honeycombed with foundations, and sometimes it was impossible to say how they came there; and when houses were rebuilt the owners often pointed to foundations which encroached on the road, and claimed to set forward their houses on the line of those foundations. In some cases, perhaps, such claims were well founded; in other cases they were not. And therefore the main benefit of the survey would be that when the time for appeal had expired, the results of the survey should be final. The Corporation would be able to refer to the survey maps, and determine the boundaries according to those maps. His fear was that this section of the Bill, as it was at present worded, would not lead to that result, because it simply said that no suit should lie to set aside any demarcation of boundaries unless brought within one year from the notification published in the Gazette approving of the survey. But the demarcation of boundaries, it was expressly enjoined, should be simply a record of possession: it would simply demarcate the boundaries in the possession of the parties. It would be decided at the time of the survey that such and such lands were in the possession of such and such parties. A person, however, might admit the question of possession, but might claim that it did not correspond with his title; that he was in no way bound by the boundaries fixed by the survey; and that he had still a right to bring a suit, within the period of twelve years prescribed by the law of limitation, to alter the boundaries in accordance with what he might prove to be his right. Under these circumstances, MR. HARRISON submitted that the wording which he proposed in his amendment would set all disputes at rest. If, however, any better wording was suggested, he did not ask that the wording in his amendment should be followed. It should, however, be made quite clear that the boundaries fixed by the survey were the correct boundaries, unless the owner could show by a suit brought within one year that the boundaries so marked were not the true boundaries. With this object he moved that for section 22 the following be substituted:—

“The boundaries of any land or premises as demarcated under the above procedure shall be deemed to be the correct boundaries, unless a suit is brought within one year from the date of the notification mentioned in the last preceding section to set aside such demarcation.”

If the principle was admitted that the result of the survey was to be final, after the expiration of one year, as regards the question of title as well as the question of possession, MR. HARRISON asked the Council to say whether the section as now worded did clearly embody that principle or not.

The HON. BABU KALLY NATH MITTER said he was opposed to the amendment. Under the ordinary law of limitation a person had a period of twelve years to enforce his right of title to land by bringing a suit, and he did not see why that period should be curtailed to one year because there was to be a survey of the town. The Hon. Mover of the amendment knew that, when the last survey was made, the boundaries of many private lands were included in the streets of Calcutta, and if there was this provision, then, that the survey was to be a final settlement of boundaries unless objection was taken within one year, all those boundaries of Private lands would have become part and parcel of the streets, whereas they were in fact not part and parcel of them. Parties came forward afterwards to show that those portions of the streets were private lands, and that the surveyor who made the survey had made mistakes in putting them in as parts of the streets. As he understood the matter, Calcutta had changed to a great extent during the last few years, and therefore the survey made on the last occasion was not now a correct or complete survey of the town. Ditches had been filled up and converted into streets; new streets had been opened out where there were no streets before, and it was highly desirable that there should be a fresh survey to show what was the present state of the town. But he did not think it was intended that private interests were to be prejudiced. If a person had by the law of limitation twelve years to recover possession of his lands, he did not see why, by the mere fact of a fresh survey having become necessary, that right should be jeopardised.

The HON. MR. ANUNDO MOHUN BOSE said that he thought the Council ought not to accept the amendment of the hon. member, and for the reasons which had been pointed out by his hon. friend Babu Kally Nath Mitter. According to the present law, by virtue of Art. 14 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act, a suit could only be brought within one year to set aside an act or order by a Government Officer; and the section in the Bill embodied that general provision. But it had been held over and over again by the Courts that, though you might not bring a suit within twelve years so as to set aside an official act, yet virtually and practically the same suit might lie when it was framed so as to make it a suit for the recovery of possession. Therefore, under the present law, if a person had been improperly deprived of possession over premises, lands or buildings, he could come up within twelve years and assert his right, but he could not frame it as a suit to set aside the demarcation of boundaries by the Superintendent; and that was exactly the principle which had been embodied in the Bill and laid before the Council by the Select Committee. But it appeared that the object of the amendment was to carry this principle a great deal further, namely, that it should be held that the boundary line of the survey should be accepted as correct unless a suit was brought within a year. It was not for him to give any positive interpretation of those words; but it seemed to him that the effect of the proposed alteration in the language of the section, coupled with the speech of his hon'ble friend the mover of the amendment, might be to shew that it was the intention of the Legislature to alter the present law as to limitation. It was not desirable that under the cover of the present law for the survey of the town, and without any notice to the general public, they should encroach upon private rights, whatever might be the reason for proposing the change. He might further point out one thing. According to the amendment, the boundaries were to be accepted as correct unless a suit was brought within one year from the date of the notification approving of the survey. This would seem to imply that the presumption as to the correctness of the survey boundary was to cease when a suit was brought within the year. But he might ask what would happen if such a suit were to be instituted without resulting in a decision on the merits. There might be a nonsuit, or the case might be dismissed on the ground of some formal defect, and might or might not be followed by other suits. The presumption as to correctness having been once destroyed, the amendment did not proceed to provide for this state of affairs. For all these reasons he thought the amendment ought not to be adopted, and that the Council ought to leave the section exactly as it was.

The HON. MR. REYNOLDS said that the amendment, as interpreted by the speeches of the two Hon. Members, seemed to raise a double issue—one an issue of principle, and the other an issue which was merely verbal. He might say at once that his object in framing section 22, as it stood, was to secure the end which the Hon'ble Mr. Harrison intended to secure by his amendment. He understood under section 22 as it stood in the Bill, that any suit to set aside a demarcated boundary must be brought within one year, and that unless a suit was brought such demarcation would be final to prevent any subsequent question being raised in respect of those lands. But it appeared to him that this object was quite as well attained, possibly better, by the section as it stood in the Bill, than by the words of the amendment. He might say plainly that it was his intention to carry out that result; but he understood there were some objections to this Council passing a law which would conflict with the wording of the Limitation Act, which was an Act passed by the Governor-General in Council. If that was the case, perhaps the Hon. the Advocate-General would explain the point. If the amendment were shown to be inadmissible on this ground, Mr. REYNOLDS hoped that the Hon. Member would be willing to allow the section to stand in the Bill as it was.

The HON. THE ADVOCATE-GENERAL said that it seemed to him that the amendment in no way extended the operation of the Bill. The survey was based upon evidence of possession, and the boundaries mentioned in the Hon. Member's amendment would be arrived at in the same way, namely, upon evidence of possession. There was not a single word as to "title" in the Bill, but it was proposed to get rid of the question of title in an indirect manner. The question of title could not be set at rest by one year's limitation. The Bengal Council had no power to take away that right which every person had under the present law to bring a suit for recovering possession of his property within twelve years. The section which had been pointed out to him as possibly giving the Bengal Council that power was section 6 of the Limitation Act, which provided as follows:—"When, by any special or local law now or hereafter in force in British India, a period of limitation is specially prescribed for any suit, appeal or application, nothing herein contained shall affect or alter the period so prescribed." That section being read subject to section 42 of the Indian Councils' Act relates to Acts to be passed by the Governor-General in Council. Therefore the position he took up was this: first, that the amendment would not extend the operation of this Bill. Section 11 of the Bill provided that an appeal should lie to the Board of Revenue. When that tribunal disposed of the appeal, there was an end to all litigation under the Act, except so far as section 22 provided that a suit might be brought within one year. If the object of the amendment was to affect title to land, he said it would not affect the question of title at all by providing a limitation of one year, as this Council had not the power to do that.

The HON. MR. HARRISON said that he was justly entitled to congratulate himself that the hon. member in charge of the Bill had intended by the section in the Bill to produce the same result that the amendment before the Council had for its object, but it appeared that Hon. Members who opposed the amendment thought it would not achieve that result. Then the next questions were whether it was desirable that that result should be achieved, whether the words he suggested would achieve it, and whether it was within the competence of this Council. As to whether it was desirable, he thought that if it was not done the survey would be deprived of a very great part of its advantages. It was precisely the element of finality that would make the survey the greatest boon, and it was on that account so desirable to attach a special period of limitation for the decision of all questions in relation to the boundaries to be demarcated by the survey. In the old possessory action of Magistrates there was a fixed period of limitation of six months within which parties were bound to bring a suit to alter the decision of the Magistrate. Similarly, after a survey was made and the boundaries laid down, a certain period should be allowed to bring a suit to prove any inherent rights of title, but if such right was not exercised within the time so fixed, the boundaries so determined should not be subject to be contested when any person rebuilt his house and sought to encroach upon the public road. In the second place, the question was whether the amendment did carry out the intention. With all respect to the opinion of the learned Advocate-General, Mr. HARRISON maintained that the amendment did effect that object so far as the municipality was concerned, because there was no question that, when the lands lying alongside the road were once finally demarcated, no one could thereafter claim any portion of the roadway. Therefore, if it could be said that the correct boundaries of the road and the lands adjoining it were correctly marked in the survey, then all the disputes which now occurred would virtually be at an end, as far as regards the rights of the public. No person could successfully claim that land was at one and the same time a part of a public road and a part of his private property. As regards the question of the competency of the Council to make such a provision of law, he must admit himself not to be able to contend against the opinion of the learned Advocate-General, if that was his opinion; and he could only express his extreme regret that an opportunity like this should be lost simply from want of power in the Local Council to pass what seemed to him to be so valuable a provision. The great advantage which the Town would derive from the survey would be much diminished by the inability of the Council to make the decision as to boundaries final, and by leaving it open for ten or twelve years under the law of limitation for these boundary disputes to be brought forward in the way they were now done, which it was the object of the Corporation to settle once for all by this survey.

The HON. MR. MACALAY said that, with reference to the last point, and with the greatest deference for the opinion of the learned Advocate-General, he would ask him to consider carefully the wording of section 6 of the Limitation Act. A local law was a law applicable to a local area, and, under those circumstances, the expression "British India" could not be intended to mean the whole of British India; otherwise it would not be a local law. If the objection to this being a local law fell to the ground, the objection to a law of the Bengal Council applicable to Calcutta only also fell to the ground; and therefore this Council had power to pass either the section contained in the Bill, or the amendment now before the Council. While he was not in favour of the amendment, he thought the section in the Bill would have the desired effect.

The HON. MR. HARRISON, with reference to the opinion of the learned Advocate-General, then asked leave to withdraw the amendment.

HIS HONOUR THE PRESIDENT said that he thought, on the whole, this was the more sensible course to take. In this conflict between lawyers it was difficult for laymen exactly to understand the point. It seemed to him that if they looked upon the way in which section 22 had been drawn, it would be a very doubtful question whether the Assistant Superintendent's decision on evidence of possession and the appeal to the Board of Revenue on the possessory evidence, could be set aside by a Civil Court if brought after twelve months from such decision. If parties dispossessed came before a Civil Court and asked for redress, section 22 would seem to preclude them unless an action was brought within twelve months. The words were clear "that no suit should be entertained to set aside any demarcation of boundaries unless brought within one year after the date of the notification." It would be after all for the Courts to decide whether section 22 evaded the right of limitation for twelve years or not. It was therefore better to leave the section as it stood in the Bill.

The motion was then by leave withdrawn, and section 22 was agreed to.

The HON. MR. HARRISON moved the following amendment in section 24, viz., that at the end of section 24 (a), for "or" substitute "and by fixing a copy on some conspicuous part of the land or premises to which it relates, or." The object of the amendment, he said, was, if possible, to diminish the chance of a case being decided in the absence of the parties interested. In ordinary cases, no doubt, the parties would attend; but in some cases it would so evidently be the interest of one of the parties, if possible, to keep the other party in ignorance of what was being done, that special efforts might be made to prevent the other party, if out of Calcutta, from being made aware of the date fixed for the consideration of objections as to boundaries. The section provided that notice "should be served by delivering the same to the person to whom it is directed, or on failure of such service, by posting the same on some conspicuous part of the house in which the said person usually resides or holds his office, or carries on his business, or by delivering the same to an agent or servant of such person, or to a male adult member of his family." In all these alternative courses it might be so manipulated by persons interested, that the notice should not reach the person interested. It would be safer to add that in all these cases a copy of the notice must be affixed to some conspicuous part of the land or premises to which it relates. He did not think that would be considered superfluous as an additional precaution to prevent the notice escaping attention.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The HON. MR. HARRISON also moved the following amendment in the same section, viz., that in the proviso attached to the end of section 24, for "the survey made under this Act shall not," substitute "after the publication of the notification referred to in section 21 no survey made under this Act shall."

He said that, as this section was one of a little more importance, perhaps he should explain its intention and meaning. The proviso enacted that the survey made under the Act should not be vitiated for any defect in the service of notice. But looking to section 6 of the Bill, which provided for cases in which the parties failed to appear after service of notice, it seemed hard to reconcile the two sections. The amendment he proposed was one which seemed to meet the object of the Bill, viz., finality in decisions, and was on the whole more equitable. Section 21 provided that, after all objections had been decided, the Lieutenant-Governor should signify his approval of the survey. That was a sort of wind-up of the survey, and left objectors to bring their suits within a year. If a person neglected his own interest so long that he waited till this final notice in the Gazette, and did not object that the notice never reached him, he might be fairly told that he was too late; and that would seem to meet all requirements. The amendment would not only harmonize this section with section 6, but would justify the rejection of all objections made after the approval of survey had been notified in the Gazette.

The motion was put and agreed to.

HIS HONOUR THE PRESIDENT remarked that, as the Bill had given rise to some discussion, he thought it would be better if its final passing into law was postponed till the next meeting of the Council.

The Council was then adjourned to Saturday, the 15th instant.

SURVEY OF THE TOWN OF CALCUTTA.

THE HON. MR. REYNOLDS, in moving that the Bill to provide for a survey of the Town of Calcutta be passed, said—this Bill was very fully discussed at the last meeting of the Council, and as no further amendments have been put on the paper, I may assume that Hon. Members are satisfied with the Bill as it stands. I may also mention that it is a matter of some importance that this Bill should be passed without delay. Hon. Members are no doubt aware that the survey mentioned in the Bill has already been commenced, and the Officer in charge of the survey finds it necessary that he should be armed with the powers which this measure will confer upon him.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 29th instant.

REVISED RULES FOR THE AWARD OF GOVERNMENT JUNIOR AND SENIOR SCHOLARSHIPS.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—EDUCATION.

The 18th January 1887.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter from the Director of Public Instruction, No. 7629, dated the 30th November 1886, submitting proposals for certain changes in the rules for the award of Government junior and senior scholarships.

The Lieutenant-Governor approves the following rules (in substitution for those now in force under Resolution dated 20th July 1882) for the award of junior and senior scholarships:—

JUNIOR SCHOLARSHIP RULES.

One hundred and fifty-two Government junior scholarships are awarded annually at the University Entrance examination to successful candidates educated at schools in Bengal.

2. The scholarships are of three grades—10 of the first grade carrying monthly stipends of Rs. 20, 47 of the second grade carrying monthly stipends of Rs. 15, and 95 of the third grade carrying monthly stipends of Rs. 10.

3. With the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction, a junior scholarship may be held at any one of the affiliated colleges in Bengal which the holder may select. A Government junior scholarship may also be held in the United Kingdom, subject to the conditions of good conduct and satisfactory progress. But a Government junior scholarship held in Bengal is not transferable to other provinces of India.

4. Each scholarship will, subject to good conduct, be tenable for two years, provided the holder is certified by the Principal of his College, at the end of the first year, to have made due progress in a collegiate course of instruction.

5. The holder of a junior scholarship in an institution not under the management of Government will be liable at any time to be examined by two persons appointed by the Director of Public Instruction, and approved by the Principal of the College to which he belongs; and on proof of unsatisfactory progress, to be deprived of his scholarship.

6. No candidate will be eligible who has not studied for the previous nine months, i.e., the whole session, from July to March inclusive, in the school to which he belongs at the time of presenting himself at the Entrance examination, unless he has been transferred within that period with the sanction of the Circle Inspector.

7. The scholarships of the first grade will be awarded to the ten candidates who obtain the highest aggregate marks.

8. The scholarships of the second and third grades will, subject to future reconsideration, be allotted to the several Commissionerships in the following proportions:—

				Second grade.	Third grade.
Burdwan Division	6	12
Town of Calcutta	5	10
Presidency Division	7	13
Rajshahye Division	6	10
Dacca Division	6	12
Chittagong Division	2	6
Patna Division	6	12
Bhagulpore Division	3	9
Orissa Division	4	6
Chota Nagpore Division	2	5
Total				47	95

9. The Commissioner of the Division, in consultation with the Circle Inspector, will notify in the Calcutta Gazette, not later than the 1st September of each year, the number of junior scholarships to be allotted to each district at the ensuing April examination. This distribution should be confined to third grade scholarships, those of the second grade being awarded to the best students in the division without reference to districts. Scholarships not taken up in the district or division to which they are assigned, may be awarded by the Director of Public Instruction at his discretion to deserving candidates from other divisions, special regard being had to the requirements of those parts of the country in which it is considered desirable to stimulate the demand for a collegiate education.

10. No candidate who cannot read and write with facility and correctness, one of the vernacular languages of Bengal, will be eligible for a junior scholarship.

11. The holders of scholarships in all Government colleges will be required to pay the usual monthly fees levied from other students, provided that no scholarship-holder shall be required to pay a higher fee than Rs. 10 per mensem.

SENIOR SCHOLARSHIP RULES.

* Fifty Government senior scholarships are offered annually for competition at the First Examination in Arts to candidates educated in any college in Bengal affiliated to the University of Calcutta.

2. These scholarships are of two grades—10 of the first grade carrying stipends of Rs. 25 per mensem, and forty† of the second grade carrying stipends of Rs. 20 per mensem.

3. With the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction, a senior scholarship may be held at any affiliated college in Bengal which may be selected by the holder, with the exception that scholarships allotted to Behar and Orissa are not tenable in Arts Colleges in Bengal. A Government senior scholarship may also be held in the United Kingdom, subject to the conditions of good conduct and satisfactory progress. But a Government senior scholarship in Bengal is not transferable to other provinces of India.

4. Each scholarship will, conditionally on good conduct, be tenable for two years, provided that the holder is certified at the end of the first year by the Principal of his College to have made due progress in a collegiate course of instruction.

5. Second-year students alone will be eligible for scholarships, i.e., those students who have passed the Entrance examination two years before presenting themselves for the First Examination in Arts.

6. The ten scholarships of the first grade will be open to all affiliated institutions without distinction, and will be awarded to the candidates who obtain the highest total marks in all subjects.

7. The forty scholarships of the second grade will, subject to future reconsideration, be reserved for students at affiliated institutions in different parts of Bengal in the following proportions :—

					Number of scholarships.
Town of Calcutta	9
Presidency Division outside Calcutta	5
Burdwan Division	8
Rajshahye Division	3
Dacca and Chittagong Divisions	7
Patna and Bhagulpore Divisions	6
Orissa Division	2
Total					40

The scholarships will be awarded to the candidates from each tract who obtain the highest marks at the examination, and who do not gain scholarships of the first grade, provided that their names appear in the first or second division of the list of passed candidates. Scholarships may, however, be awarded in special cases to candidates from Behar or Orissa who fall below the second division.

8. From the allotment to the Presidency and Burdwan Divisions, one scholarship shall for the present be reserved for the candidate who obtains the highest marks from the Berhampore and Midnapore Colleges respectively, provided he passes in the first or second division, and does not gain a scholarship under rule 6 or 7.

9. The holders of senior scholarships in all Government colleges will be required to pay the usual monthly fees levied from other students.

3. The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.

4. The cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head "District observations of rain-fall" the amount of rain-fall is given in inches.

CALCUTTA, the 18th January 1887.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 14TH OF JANUARY 1887.

At the end of the week ending Friday, 7th, as noted in last week's weather report, a slight, but extensive, cold weather depression had advanced from Central or Upper India, and was passing eastwards through the Province. This disturbance gave throughout the Province on Friday evening and Saturday a series of thunder-storms, which, in several of their features, resembled the nor-wester storms of the hot weather months. The rainfall accompanying the disturbance was hence very unequally distributed, ranging in amount from zero up to an inch and a half. The storms in the Rungpore district gave severe hail showers, which are stated to have done much damage to the standing crops in some parts of the district.

The disturbance filled up or passed eastwards from East Bengal on Saturday evening. The barometer rose rapidly until the 12th or 13th; the temperature and humidity of the air decreased, and light westerly to northerly winds prevailed throughout the Province. The weather in Upper India appears to be unusually changeable at the present time. A second cold weather depression commenced to form in Northern Rajputana and the Punjab on the 12th. It was smaller and much less important than the previous cold weather disturbance. It caused a general and rapid fall of the barometer in Bengal, commencing on the 12th or 13th. It affected the weather throughout the Province in the usual manner, increasing the temperature and humidity and changing the direction and character of the winds. The depression apparently passed into Behar and Chutia Nagpur, to nearly the whole of which area it gave light to moderate rain. In parts of the Hazaribagh and Lohardugga districts, amounts varying from one to two inches were received. South Behar obtained an average rainfall of half an inch from the disturbance. The depression filled up on the 15th without passing into Bengal, when ordinary cold weather conditions were again established throughout the Province.

The barometer was much below its average height at the commencement of the week under review. It rose steadily until the 12th or 13th by amounts ranging from $\frac{1}{10}$ th of an inch at the coast stations to $\frac{1}{4}$ th of an inch at the Behar and North Bengal stations. It fell rather rapidly on the 13th and 14th, but was somewhat above its normal height at the end of the week. The mean pressure of the week was below its normal height, except in East Bengal, the eastern districts of South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. The deficiency varied from '01" at Berhampore to '04" at Calcutta and Purneah. The Darjeeling barometric observations (if correct) appear to indicate unusually low pressure over the hills to the north of Bengal, the deficiency at that station for the week exceeding a tenth of an inch.

Temperature has varied very considerably from the normal temperature of the period during the week. It was much above the average at the commencement of the week. The disappearance of the first depression of the week was followed by a rapid decline of temperature which continued until the 11th. The formation and existence of the second depression of the week was accompanied by the usual large increase in the temperature, more especially the night temperature. This caused a rise in the mean temperature on the 13th and 14th, varying from 2° to 6° in amount. The following table gives temperature data for eight representative stations:—

The two depressions of the past fortnight have given unusually heavy rain to the Province. The first disturbance gave rain to every district, with the exception of Pooree, Darbhunga, Chumparun, Sarun, and the greater part of Mozufferpore and North Bhagulpore. The second depression gave light to moderate rain in part of North Bengal (Maldah Dinagore, and the Darjeeling Hills), and to Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The rainfall was heaviest in parts of Hazaribagh and Lohardugga. It was general and very uniformly distributed over South Behar, which received an average of half an inch. North Bengal and South-West Bengal have each received an average rainfall of four-tenths of an inch since the first of the month, North and East Bengal five-tenths, South Behar nearly seven-tenths, and Chutia Nagpur eleven-tenths. The rainfall in these divisions is from two to ten times its normal amount for the period (1st to the 14th). The rainfall of Orissa for the same period was practically nil (.05 inch). The following districts which have received average amounts exceeding three-quarters of an inch represent the centres of heaviest rainfall during the two disturbances:—Noakholly (1.59 inches), Rungpore (1.08 inches), Hazaribagh, (1.22 inches), Lohardugga (1.25 inches), Gya (.84 inch), and Commillah (.82 inch).

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 14th of January 1887:—

N. S. L. CARTER,
Traffic Manager.

TRAFFIC MANAGER'S OFFICE, JAMALPUR, the 14th January 1887.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during four weeks ended 27th November 1886.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in both the down ward and upward traffic; the former due to a better demand in Calcutta for local consumption, and the upward to larger indents from Foreign Railways.

Cotton.—A satisfactory crop with good demand for export, attended by a firm market, are the reasons which may be assigned for the large increase in this staple.

Wheat.—This small increase was owing to a brisk market at Calcutta attended with steady prices.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—This increase is attributable to better prices ruling in the market than during the corresponding period of 1885.

Railway material, Foreign.—Increased despatches to Benares and to Cawnpore account for the improvement under this head.

Salt.—There was a large increase in the weight carried of this staple attended with a small increase in earnings owing to competition.

Seeds.—This increase is assignable to larger stocks and a slightly better demand this season than in 1885.

Tobacco.—The increase in this commodity may be attributed to ordinary fluctuation of trade.

DECREASES.

Piece-goods.—An almost total want of demand from the distributing markets in the mofussil accounts for the heavy decrease in this staple.

Gram and pulses.—Plentiful crops all over the country must be assigned as the reason for this decrease.

Gunny.—The falling off under this head may be ascribed to competition.

Hides and skins.—This decrease is attributable to short stock, the Calcutta market having been very favourable, but supplies scarce.

Brass and copper.—The decrease in these metals was also due to competition.

Opium.—No special reason can be assigned for the decrease in this Government monopoly.

Sugar.—There was an increase in weight carried attended with a decrease in receipts which is attributable to fluctuation of traffic in respect of long distances.

Government Stores.—The falling off in these stores is due to decreased despatches from Government depôts.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 4).

BAY OF BENGAL—BURMA COAST.

COAST OF TENASSERIM.

MERGUI ARCHIPELAGO.

Dangerous rocks on the beaten track.

THE Officer in charge of the Marine Survey of India has given notice in reference to searches having been made of the position and existence of the undermentioned rocks lying in the fairway track through the Mergui Archipelago :—

Peterson rock.—This rock, which dries at low-water spring tides, is described as a pinnacle, lying one mile N.-W. of West Passage Island on the N.-E. side of Lord William Bentinck Island.

Warning rock.—Is situated in the same locality, but a little to the northward of Lord William Bentinck Island, and was found to lie half a mile east of its charted position ; there being no dangers off the east side of West Passage Island.

Fly rock.—A very dangerous rocky pinnacle about 30 feet in extent, with perpendicular sides, is awash at low-water spring tides ; but it seldom makes any ripple in the fine season. It lies with the following bearings and distances :—

West extreme of Bushby Island	South, distant 6 miles.
S.-E. point of Lord William Bentinck Island	N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., distant $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
Fly islet (40 feet high, small)	S.-E. by E., distant $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

Note.—To clear this danger, mariners are cautioned to keep the S.-E. point of Lord William Bentinck Island touching the west side of South Passage Island (east side of Lord William Bentinck Island), which line leads one mile west of it ; or keep the father and son (west side of Sir Edward Owen's Island), showing to westward of the conical rock immediately off Bushby Island ; or especially during thick weather the whole of the conical rock properly open of Bushby Island, will clear the Fly rock by half a mile to westward.

A shoal off High Island.—The shoal reported three miles N. N.-E. of High island (N.-E. side of Sullivan's Island or Lampee) was not found ; depths of twenty fathoms were obtained everywhere for a mile round the position assigned, and overfalls and tide-rips being numerous north of High Island.

A rock.—This danger, which is situated in the east side of the Forrest's Strait, and dries at low-water spring tides, lies a quarter of a mile north of Canister rock.

Marble rock.—Reported to exist $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. N.-W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. from the northern island of The Gregorys Group, was searched for in vain, although drags were used extensively over the vicinity. A coral patch, with the least depth of one fathom at low-water spring tides, was, however, found $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. of the Northern Island of The Gregorys, and which is considered probably to be the same danger.

Boyce shoal.—An unsuccessful search was made for the reported danger stated to lie about 2 miles east of the main body of The Gregorys ; the existence of the shoal, therefore, must be considered very doubtful.

Kurrachee rock.—A small pinnacle rock, standing in 16 fathoms, and dries 5 feet at low-water spring tides, lies with the followings bearings and distances :—

Red point (on the main land) E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., distant $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
Turret Island S.-E. by S., distant $7\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
South point of the biggest island of The Gregorys	W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N., distant $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
South island of The Gregorys S.-W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W., distant $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles.

Note.—A rock has been placed one mile N. N.-E. of the above position, but it does not exist, and should be expunged from the admiralty charts.

Directions.—Western Channel.—The channel west of The Gregorys in Forrest's Strait is not recommended until a larger scale chart is published. Eastern Channel.—Mariners, when proceeding through, should keep in mid-channel between The Gregorys and the main land bearing in mind that Sir Robert Campbell's reef, which lies $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of Canister Island, covers at high-water; this track, therefore, leads through in $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms at low-water. It is high-water full and change at 10h. 39m., and the average rise of springs is 18 to 16 feet more than the above depth; and a vessel by keeping in soundings under 10 fathoms at any time of tide will be well clear of the Kurrachee rock.

The bearings are magnetic.

and Offg. Port Officer of Calcutta.*

IV.—The Commissioners shall from time to time prepare and submit for the sanction of Government a schedule of the establishment and salaries they consider necessary for the purposes of this Act.

V.—After sanction of such schedule, the Commissioners shall have the power to appoint the Inspector, Assistant Inspectors and clerks, &c., and they shall also have power to suspend or remove such officers. The Inspector shall also be Secretary to the Commission, and he shall attend the office and keep such registers and accounts as the Commission may direct under rule III.

VI.—The Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police, which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. He shall see that all notices are duly served, and that all fees are duly brought to account and paid into the Bank. He shall keep in his own custody all forms of certificates, declarations, check receipts, and vouchers. He shall himself verify the balance at credit, shown in the accounts of the Commissioners' office, with the balance in the Bank. Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

(b)—An ordinary inspection made at any time when the Inspector has reason to believe the boiler is being improperly worked or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

SOUTH-WEST MONSOON RAINFALL—MAY TO OCTOBER 1886.

The following is published for general information

P. NOLAN,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

THE following remarks give a brief resumé of the more important feature of the rainfall of the province of Bengal during the south-west monsoon period, May to October 1886, and an introductory statement of the chief features of the weather, antecedent to the rains.

January was drier than usual. Behar obtained light showers from a depression which advanced into it from Upper India. February was unusually dry and cool. No rain fell, with the exception of some light showers in Behar and Bengal. The rapid increase of temperature which marks the transition to the hot weather, and which in South Bengal is almost contemporaneous with the establishment of southerly sea breezes in the coast districts, took place in the beginning of March, or nearly a fortnight later than usual. The weather in March was somewhat disturbed. A series of nor'westers occurred between the 21st and 29th in all divisions, except Behar and North Bengal. Temperature increased rapidly in April; but the whole of that month and the first week of May were unusually free from atmospheric disturbance. This was ultimately followed by a prolonged and vigorous series of thunderstorms or nor'westers, occurring between the 12th and 18th of May, which gave unusually heavy and general rain to the whole province. Almost immediately afterwards the first advance of southerly moist winds into the Bay from the South occurred and gave rise to a small cyclone that advanced westwards to the Coromandel Coast near Pondicherry on the 24th. A brief interval of inaction in the south of the Bay, from the 24th to the 30th, was contemporaneous with a strengthening of the local sea winds in Bengal, which gave fairly general rain, heaviest in East Bengal, and diminishing in amount westwards.

The meteorological conditions antecedent to the advent of the rains proper had thus been approximately normal in character. The variations of the distribution of pressure from the mean were extremely small, more especially in March and April. Pressure was slightly higher in East Bengal relatively to the normal, and very slightly lower in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar. The variations were, however, so small as to indicate the absence of those special meteorological conditions which apparently precede serious deficiency of the rain-supply and drought over large areas. The next advance of south-west monsoon winds occurred in the first week of June. It gave rise to the formation of two small storms off the Aracan Coast, which advanced into East Bengal and gave it copious rain. A third and much more powerful advance originated on the 14th or 15th a large depression and storm, which marched across the coast near Saugor Island on the 16th, and drifted west north-westwards into Rajputana, initiating the rains in Western Bengal, Chutia Nagpur, and Behar. The rains proper were thus at least a week later than usual in being established over the greater part of the province. General rain, due to this first large influx of the moisture current of the south-west monsoon, continued in all parts of the province until the 9th or 10th of July, when a feeble depression began to form near the head of the Bay. A partial break in the rains commenced in the western and central districts, and lasted until the 20th or 21st of July, when the depression advanced across Orissa and Chutia Nagpur into Bundelcund. General rain followed and continued until the 10th August. An unusually large proportion of this rainfall was determined to South Behar, and the western districts of South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, where the local conditions gave rise to a slight depression, which continued in existence from the 25th to 30th July. Some excessive rainfalls occurred during this period in that area. Raniganj received 16.89 inches on the 26th, and Hetampore 15.32 inches on the 25th July. A slight break in the rains, chiefly felt in Behar, followed during the generation of another storm in the Bay. This crossed the Ganjam Coast on the 18th of August. Its passage across Orissa into the Central Provinces was accompanied by a large influx of vapour, and hence by general rain throughout the province. It was especially heavy in East and North Bengal.

The monsoon current was unusually strong in September. During the first three weeks, three depressions formed in succession at the head of the Bay, and advanced across the coast of Orissa, through Chutia Nagpur, into South Behar. The indraught to them brought up unusually large supplies of aqueous vapour to all parts of the province. A fourth depression was generated during the last week of the month, which crossed the Ganjam Coast. The rainfall accompanying that disturbance in Bengal was chiefly given to Orissa and South-West Bengal. The rainfall of September was especially abundant in the Gya, Bhagulpore, Dinagepore, and Purneah districts, and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs. Some very heavy falls in 24 hours were recorded. Julpigori received 15.71 inches on the 13th. The rainfall of the month of October was of a very unusual character. A small depression formed at the commencement of the month and marched through Orissa into South Behar. This gave general rain to the province. The southern districts of South Behar and the Hazaribagh district obtained during the latter part of its existence excessive rain, which caused heavy floods in the Sone valley. Two depressions, which marched to the west coast of the Bay during the latter half of October, influenced the weather to a slight extent in Bengal. Occasional thunderstorms occurred in Bengal, and moderately heavy rain in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur and South Behar. The southern districts of East Bengal received moderate rain from a small subsidiary depression which advanced into it on the 20th.

The occurrence and the local distribution of the monsoon rainfall of 1886 has been briefly indicated in the preceding remarks. It only remains to state more fully the variation of the district rainfall, month by month, from the normal fall.

The rainfall of the month of May was either approximately equal to or above the average in all districts, with the exception of Mymensingh, and Julpigori and Cooch Behar. The excess was greatest in South-West Bengal, North Behar, the southern districts of Chutia Nagpur, the Dinagepore and Rungpore districts of North Bengal, the Monghyr district and the Sonthal Pergunnahs, over nearly the whole of which it exceeded 40 per cent.. This unusually heavy rainfall in May, due in part to a prolonged atmospheric disturbance in the earlier part of the month, was followed, as is frequently the case, by a slight retardation in the arrival of the monsoon proper, and hence by a general deficiency of rainfall in June.

The rainfall of the month of June was generally below the average, and was very unequally distributed. The Cuttack and Balasore districts obtained from 40 to 50 per cent. above the normal amount. South Behar (excluding the Patna district) received an average of from 15 to 30 per cent. in excess. Over the remainder of the province the rainfall was either approximately normal or in defect. The deficiency exceeded 20 per cent. in the northern districts of East Bengal, the whole of North Bengal (excluding Rajshahye and Maldah); North Behar (excluding Durbhunga and North Bhagulpore), and the Patna district, the Midnapore, Bankoorah, Beerbhoom, and Nuddea districts of South-West Bengal, and the Hazaribagh and Manbhoom districts. The deficiency was actually greatest in the northern districts of North Bengal, where it was very nearly 40 per cent. Hence the rainfall of the month of June was considerably in defect over the great part of North Behar and North Bengal, the northern districts of East Bengal, the northern districts of Chutia Nagpur, and the adjacent districts of South-West Bengal.

The rainfall of the month of July was fairly well distributed and abundant. Balasore, Midnapore, Bogra, Rungpore, Hazaribagh, and Lohardugga were the only districts in which there was a deficiency exceeding 10 per cent. In North and East Bengal the rainfall was generally slightly in excess, except in Noakholly, Dacca and Comillah, where the excess varied from 25 to 50 per cent. The rainfall in South-West Bengal was copious, but very irregularly distributed. The Beerbhoom district was a centre of very heavy rain, and received about 60 per cent. in excess. Hooghly and Nuddea obtained a rainfall 33 per cent. in excess. Behar also received unusually abundant rain. Over the whole of that area (excluding South Bhagulpore and the Sonthal Pergunnahs) the rainfall of the month was from 25 to 100 per cent. above the average. The Patna and Sarun districts formed the centre of heaviest rainfall. Very heavy local downpours occurred in the areas of heaviest precipitation, which gave rise to unusually high floods in Behar. The rainfall of the month of July was hence to a considerable extent opposite in character and distribution to that of the month of June.

The rainfall of the next month (August) was similar in character to that of July. It was generally above the average, and was most abundant in North Behar, North and East Bengal, or those districts which received the smallest amounts at the commencement of the monsoon (i.e. in June). In North Behar, the rainfall was abnormally heavy in the Purneah, Durbhunga, Mozufferpore, and Chumparun districts, which received from 60 to 80 per cent. above the average. In East Bengal, Backergunge obtained its normal amount. Over the remainder of that division the rainfall was from 25 to 60 per cent. in excess, the Dacca district being the centre of heaviest rainfall. Over the whole of North Bengal and South Behar, and in the Beerbhoom, Nuddea, Jessore, Khoolna and Moorshedabad districts, the rainfall was generally slightly in excess. Gya, Patna, Pubna and Bogra were the only districts in that area which received an excess slightly exceeding 23 per cent. Orissa, Chutia Nagpur (excluding Hazaribagh), and the south-western districts of South-West Bengal obtained total rainfalls during the month generally slightly less than the normal. The deficiency was considerable (exceeding 25 per cent.) in the Singbhoom, Manbhoom, Howrah, and Midnapore districts.

The rains were unusually persistent and plentiful in the month of September. The rainfall was either normal or above the average in all districts, except Singbhoom (where the deficiency was 32 per cent.) and Backergunge (where it was 7 per cent.) Over the greater part of the province the excess was over 33 per cent. It exceeded 60 per cent. in the Maldah, Dinagepur, and Purneah districts, which formed one centre of excessive rainfall, in the whole of South Behar and Manbhoom, which formed a second centre, and also in Mozufferpore, a third centre. The rainfall was exceptionally heavy in the Dinagepore, Gya and South Bhagulpore districts, and in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, where it was more than twice the average rainfall of the month. This rainfall was chiefly due to the invasion of an unusually strong moisture current, which gave frequent and prolonged rain, more especially in Behar and North Bengal. There were many cases of intense local rainfall for brief periods, but these were generally not in the districts of largest total precipitation.

The rainfall of the month of October was very unusual in character and distribution. There was a strong influx of aqueous vapour to the greater part of Behar and the adjacent districts of Chutia Nagpur during the first fortnight, which gave unusually heavy rain. The Sarun, Shahabad, Gya, Monghyr, Hazaribagh and Lohardugga districts received total amounts varying from two to four times the normal rainfall of the month. The heaviest precipitation occurred in the Gya, Hazaribagh, and Shahabad districts or in the middle Sone valley, and occasioned severe floods. In Bengal and Orissa the rain fell chiefly during thunderstorms, and was hence very local and capricious in character. North Bengal and East Bengal (excluding Chittagong and Maldah, in which there was a slight excess) received amounts from 10 to 60 per cent. less than the mean fall of the month. Over the greater part of South-West Bengal and in Orissa the rainfall varied very slightly (generally in defect) from the normal. It was deficient in the Bankoora and Midnapore districts and in the 24-Pergunnahs by amounts slightly exceeding 20 per cent.

The preceding sketch has shown that the monsoon rains of 1886 were unusually plentiful. The monsoon was slightly later in being established over the province than usual, and was below its normal strength in June. It gave excessive rain during the months of July and August to the northern and eastern districts of the province, or to North and Central Behar, North and East Bengal, during September and October to South Behar, and in October to Chutia Nagpur. The only districts in which there was a deficiency in the total rainfall of the monsoon period were—Singbhoom, Midnapore, Bankoora, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Rungpore and Julpigori. The deficiency was less than 5 per cent. (or the rainfall practically normal), except in Singbhoom and a portion of Midnapore (represented by the stations of Contai and Tumlook), in which it slightly exceeded 15 per cent. Over the whole of Bengal (with the exception of the districts mentioned above), the monsoon rainfall of 1886 was from 5 to 25 per cent. above the average, the excess, roughly speaking, increasing in amount from east to west and from south to north. It was greatest in the Dacca and Dinagepore districts, for which it was 23 and 22 per cent. respectively. The excess was less marked in Chutia Nagpur and Orissa. In these areas Cuttack and Hazaribagh received the largest excess, the percentage variations for these two districts being 19 and 11 per cent.

The most marked feature of the season was the excessive rainfall over the whole of Behar. It was due rather to steady, prolonged downpours than to occasional violent precipitation, and hence accompanied a continuous determination of the moisture current to that area during the monsoon. It received from 15 to 25 inches above the normal amount. The excess, expressed as a percentage, ranged from 30 per cent. in Chumparun to 59 per cent. in Gya. Gya, Patna, and Sarun formed the centre of this area of abundant rainfall.

To sum up :—

1. The monsoon of 1886 was unusually favourable. It gave abundant rain, lasted until the middle of October in Behar, and until the end of October in Bengal. Its final withdrawal southwards was not followed by the formation of any cyclone entering the province:

2. It was characterized by prolonged periods of general rain rather than by excessive or violent local precipitation. In Bengal, Orissa, and Chutia Nagpur the monthly variations were complementary, slightly deficient rainfall at one period being more than compensated for by excess at another period during the monsoon. In South Behar, and to a less extent in North Behar, the rainfall was excessive throughout the whole season, the Gya, Sarun, and Patna districts apparently forming the centre of an area of favourable abnormal meteorological conditions, and therefore of excessive precipitation.

3. The rainfall in South-West Bengal and Orissa was well distributed throughout the whole season, and was not very excessive in its total amount, in no district except Beerbhoom exceeding the normal by 20 per cent. In East Bengal the rains were very abundant in the earlier monsoon months, but were deficient towards the end of the rains, especially in October. They were hence not distributed so favourably as in South-West Bengal. The total rainfall of East and North Bengal was either normal or slightly in excess, the greatest excess occurring in the Dacca and Dinagpore districts (23 and 22 per cent. respectively). In Behar the rainfall was more or less in excess throughout the whole season. In Chutia Nagpur it was steadily in defect during the greater part of the rains, the deficiency being greatest in Singbhoom. An unusually heavy fall during the first half of October caused the total rainfall of the period to be slightly in excess in Hazaribagh, Manbhoom and Lohardugga.

4. The following table gives briefly the amount and variation of the rainfall in each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province, month by month :—

5. The rainfall of the south-west monsoon period of the past seven years in Bengal appears to indicate that it follows some cyclical or periodic law. The following table gives the average provincial rainfall for each of the years 1880-86, and the variation from the average for the monsoon period :—

	1880.	1881.	1882.	1883.	1884.	1885.	1886.

6. If the accumulation of rainfall records in Bengal should prove hereafter that the periodic law of variation is of a simple form or character, its determination will be of the utmost importance. It is, however, much more probable that it is of a complex nature, and hence not capable of (approximately) exact induction.

Explanation. — Summary. — The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical averages or means of the reading during the same period for the past 10 years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as a percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional stations for the past 10 years.

ALCUTTA, the 18th January 1887.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 21st OF JANUARY 1887.

THE chief feature of the meteorology of the past week in Northern India was the formation of a cold-weather depression and disturbance, the third during the present month. The storm was one of the largest and most remarkable of its class of recent years. A similar storm of nearly equal intensity occurred in January 1877. The present storm appears to have originated in the Punjab on Monday evening or Tuesday morning, commencing as a slight depression, which increased in amount, until the barometer in that area was about half an inch below its normal height. It gave a large and rapid fall of the barometer to the whole of India; but the decrease of pressure was greatest along the line of march of the central depression. The centre was in the eastern districts of the North-Western Provinces on Thursday morning, and passed through Central Behar into Bengal on Friday morning, when the depression and cyclonic movement of the air were less clearly defined than on the previous day. The general character of the weather was, however, unchanged in Bengal. Skies were overcast, and rain fell over the greater part of the Province. The central depression was more marked on Saturday morning, when it was in East Bengal over the mouth of the Megna. The wind directions at the Bengal stations showed at that time distinct convergence of the air to the centre. The depression either filled up or passed eastwards into Burmah during the day. Weather rapidly improved, and on Saturday evening fine clear weather was established again over the Province.

Skies began to cloud over in the western districts of the Province on Wednesday morning. Cloud formation extended rapidly eastwards, and on Thursday skies were densely clouded or overcast throughout the Province. Rain commenced to fall in the northern and western districts of Behar on Wednesday. General and heavy rain fell on Thursday over the whole of Behar and North Bengal, and the greater part of Chutia Nagpur. The amounts recorded at different stations varied between one inch and two-and-a-half inches. The rainfall was distributed with unusual uniformity over that area, and averaged about an inch for the whole of Behar and North Bengal on the 20th. A few showers were received on that day in other districts, chiefly in the western districts of South-West Bengal. The rainfall of the next day (21st) was most general and largest in amount in South-West and East Bengal, which received an average of nearly half an inch on that day. Showers, more or less local in character, also fell in other districts, more especially in the neighbourhood of the hills in North Behar and Bengal. The rainfall accompanying the march of the depression appears to have been heaviest and most general to the north and north-east of the central depression. The only division in which the rainfall of the week was practically nil is Orissa. North Behar received an average of 1.6 inches, South Behar 1.20 inches, North Bengal 1.1 inches, Chutia Nagpur .80 inch, South-West Bengal .52 inch, and East Bengal .45 inch. The normal rainfall of the week in each of these divisions is less than the tenth of an inch. Hence the abnormal character of the storm and accompanying rainfall may be estimated.

Pressure increased rapidly on Saturday after the disappearance of the second cold-weather disturbance of the month. It commenced to decrease on Sunday afternoon and fell rapidly for some days, through amounts averaging two-tenths of an inch, until Thursday morning in Behar, and until Friday or Saturday morning in East Bengal. The mean pressure of the week is hence very considerably below the normal. The deficiency slightly exceeded a tenth of an inch, except in Eastern and Central Bengal. It was (probably) absolutely greatest at Darjeeling ($-.156''$), and least at Dacca ($-.074''$).

Temperature, as usual, decreased rapidly after the disappearance of the second storm of the month. As soon as the large depression of the present week began to influence the weather in Bengal, and give clouded skies, and increased humidity of the air, temperature increased rapidly. The effect of the disturbances of the week has been to give a mean maximum day temperature from 2° to 7° below the average in Bengal, Behar, and Chutia Nagpur, and a mean minimum night temperature slightly above the normal, except in Chutia Nagpur and at Darjeeling. The following table gives data for eight representative stations:—

The general character of the distribution of the rainfall of the week has been already noticed. The Purneah district received an average slightly exceeding two inches. The following districts received averages varying between two and one-and-a-half inches:—Darjeeling, Bhagulpore, Durrhunga; and the following districts amounts between one-and-a-half inches and one inch:—Dinapore, Julpigoree, Sarun, Mozufferpore, Motihari, Maldah, Patna, Sonthal Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad, and Beerbhoom.

North Bengal, Chutia Nagpur and Behar have received, since the first of the month, average amounts ranging from one-and-a-half inches to two inches. South-West Bengal and East Bengal very nearly an inch, and Orissa only a tenth of an inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 21st of January 1887:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The month of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

GENERAL REMARKS AND EXPLANATIONS.

From the statement given above, it will be seen that there have been increased despatches under 18 out of the 24 heads into which the traffic of the line is classed compared with the corresponding period of 1885, the net increase being 11,195 62 tons, or 127 per cent. This result is expected when it is borne in mind that there was stoppage of through booking of goods with the Eastern Bengal State Railway for 21 days (10th to 30th) in September 1885, consequent upon breaks on that line caused by floods. A fair comparison between the two periods cannot therefore be made.

Excepting intoxicating drugs, under which there has been a trifling falling off, the decreases are only in metals, paddy, seeds and timber. The despatches under the last three heads are almost exclusively local, and therefore little affected by interruption in through booking. A considerable traffic in metal is also done locally, but the present decrease appears to be mainly due to large consignments of tea lead and iron building materials having passed over the line during the first week of September 1885, when there was no interruption in through booking.

INCREASES.

The gross weight of traffic carried during the month under review stands at 57,269 tons, being a net increase as compared with the corresponding month of the previous year of 5,951 tons.

This result, considering that the through-booking of traffic was suspended during the first week of the month, owing to the floods, may be looked on as fairly satisfactory. The principal increases are shown under the following heads:—

Coal and coke 683 tons.

Increased despatches to the Northern Bengal State Railway and Darjeeling-Himalayan Railway accounts for the extra weight lifted under this head.

Piece-goods 364 tons.

Piece-goods continue to be sent forward in considerable quantities to supply the bazar demands of the eastern districts.

Jute 6,249 tons.

A slight advance in prices at home led to heavy shipments in bales during the month.

Hides 666 tons.

This increase is almost entirely in "Dacca." A sudden increase of from Re. 1 to Rs. 2 in the Calcutta market for Dacca hides led to a rush being made to get them down for disposal at the higher rates offering.

Tea 659 tons.

The price realised at the sales held in Calcutta just before the Poojahs led to managers of gardens making a push to get all they could down for the first sale after the holidays, in the hope that the slightly better rates obtained at the sale on 29th September might continue.

Firewood 1,346 tons.

The stock at the Balliaghatta Depot had been allowed to run low in consequence of a rumour having been spread that the Railway was about to take over the land on which the wood is allowed to be stored.

DECREASES.

The principal decreases are—

Rice 1,182 tons.

During the corresponding month of last year, there was a good deal of speculation in this staple owing to the reports of a short crop, which, no doubt, led to the extra weight, as compared with the current month, being sent forward. This is the only explanation forthcoming, as there has been a good demand in the Calcutta market during the month at about the same rates as were ruling during the month of October 1885.

Salt 884 tons.

The ruling price for this staple during September, and at the beginning of the month under review, was Rs. 79 to Rs. 80 per 100 maunds, at which rate purchasers held off. About the middle of the month, however, prices declined to Rs. 73, at which rate heavy purchases were made.

Seeds 333 tons.

The transactions during the month have almost been of a retail character; prices at the port have steadily declined, and this, together with the increasing firmness in freights and exchange, has, for the time being, almost put a stop to all business in seeds.

INCREASES.

2,401 tons is the total weight lifted during the month, which gives an increase of 341 tons over the weight carried for October 1885.

The difference would no doubt have been larger had not the line been closed for through traffic for 22 days during the month under review.

The principal increases are under the following heads:—

Betelnuts 76 tons.

This increase is, I think, a sign that the railway is gradually getting the preference over river despatch for this and other high-priced staples

Coal and coke 423 tons.

A consignment of coal was despatched during the month to Khoolna for the use of the I. G. S. N. Co's. steamers.

Jute 509 tons.

Jute from the Madanpur and Magura districts is still being sent forward in considerable quantities, and, but for the unfortunate check given to the traffic by the stoppage of through booking, the increase would probably have been much larger.

Rice 77 tons.

There has been a good demand in the Calcutta market for this staple at fairly profitable rates during the whole of the month, and the wonder is that a larger quantity has not found its way down over the line.

DECREASES.

The following are the principal decreases:—

Metals 30 tons.

The suspension of through booking for the greater part of the month is no doubt the cause of the falling off under this head, stopping, as it did, the despatch beyond Bongong of native cooking utensils, and the various other articles manufactured for native use.

Sugar 109 tons.

The increased rate carried under this head in August last is probably the cause of the falling off this month. The sugar carried over the line is almost entirely the produce of the Jhikergachi mills; so that a large increase in despatches in any one month is generally followed by a corresponding decrease later on.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 5).

BAY OF BENGAL.

BURMA COAST.

COAST OF ARAKAN.

(1) Reported incorrect position of shoal southward of Sandoway Anchorage.

THE Officer in charge of the Marine Survey of India has reported that the 4-fathom shoal lying 20 miles S. by W. of Sandoway anchorage is incorrectly placed on the published charts of that coast.

The shoal—which has a depth of only 10 feet over it at low-water spring tides, and composed of large stones—is reported as being distant $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles S. by E. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. of the position at present assigned.

Position—Latitude $18^{\circ} 14' N.$; longitude $94^{\circ} 08' 45'' E.$ (Madras observatory being in longitude $86^{\circ} 14' 51''$ East of Greenwich.)

Note.—Mariners should navigate this part of the coast with extreme caution.

RAMREE HARBOUR.

(2) Beacon on Dragon shoal.

Information has been received that a beacon has been erected to indicate the harbour entrance near the northern end of Dragon shoal, one cable N.N.E. of the large white rock, Ramree harbour.

This beacon—which consists of an iron tripod, carrying a drum and painted red—was intended to have been placed on Flat Reef, which is a large bank of boulders separated from the Dragon shoal by deep water.

Note.—Further notice will be given when the beacon is shifted to its right position.

CHEDUBA STRAIT.

(3) Buoys and beacons off North side of Cheduba Island.

Also, with reference to this Department Notice to Mariners, No. 58, of 21st October 1886, on the breaking adrift of the Central Shoal buoy, northern approach to the Cheduba Strait:—

Further notice has been given that the buoy painted red, and surmounted with a staff and basket, has been replaced on the northern edge of the Central Shoal, North side of the Fairway, in 8 fathoms at low-water spring tides, and lies with the following bearings and distances:—

Rocky Point beacon	...	N. W. distant $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles
Dark hill (wooded)	...	N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. " $2\frac{1}{2}$ "
Old beacon (on next point)	...	N. E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N. " 1 mile (nearly.)

As a guide to vessels approaching the Cheduba Strait from the northward, and in order to distinguish Beacon island from the other islands, a small beacon has been erected on the summit off the East end of Beacon island, N. W. side of Cheduba island.

Note.—Steam-ships approaching from the northward may steer direct for the Central Shoal buoy on a bearing E. $\frac{1}{2}$ S. in line with the highest summit of the Ramree hills, then pass 2 cables to the South of it, and keep it just open of Rocky point until the leading mark for hailing to the southward comes on, viz., the Dark wooded hill bearing N. N. W. $\frac{1}{4}$ W.

The beacons, on Rocky point and on the West side of the next point to the eastward, are 30 feet high, constructed of poles with baskets, and are painted white.

The bearings are magnetic.

Directions of the Tidal Streams.

Information has been received from the Officer in charge of the Marine Survey of India that from observations taken on board the Indian Marine Surveying steamer Investigator in January 1887, on a line between the China Ba-keer light-house and Kalegouk island, the direction of the streams were found to be always to or from the centre of the Salwin or Maulmain river, there being no circular set. At springs there was a slack water of half an hour corresponding in time to the high and low water times at Amherst (entrance to Maulmain river—see tide tables), and the maximum current, flood or ebb, was $3\frac{1}{2}$ knots, which is probably exceeded in the wet season.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—(No. 4).

BAY OF BENGAL—BURMA COAST.

COAST OF TENASSERIM.

MERGUI ARCHIPELAGO.

Dangerous rocks on the beaten track.

The Officer in charge of the Marine Survey of India has given notice in reference to searches having been made of the position and existence of the undermentioned rocks lying in the fairway track through the Mergui Archipelago:—

Peterson rock.—This rock, which dries at low-water spring tides, is described as a pinnacle, lying one mile N. W. of West Passage Island on the N. E. side of Lord William Bentinck Island.

Warning rock—Is situated in the same locality, but a little to the northward of Lord William Bentinck Island, and was found to lie half a mile East of its charted position; there being no dangers off the East side of West Passage Island.

Fly rock—A very dangerous rocky pinnacle about 30 feet in extent, with perpendicular sides, is awash at low-water spring tides; but it seldom makes any ripple in the fine season. It lies with the following bearings and distances:—

West extreme of Bushby Island	South,	distant 6 miles.
S. E. point of Lord William Bentinck Island...	N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W.,	„	7 $\frac{1}{2}$ „
Fly islet (40 feet high, small)	S. E. by E.,	„ 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ „

Note.—To clear this danger, Mariners are cautioned to keep the S. E. point of Lord William Bentinck Island touching the West side of South Passage Island (East side of Lord William Bentinck Island), which line leads one mile West of it; or keep the Father and Son (West side of Sir Edward Owen's Island), showing to westward of the conical rock immediately off Bushby Island; or especially during thick weather the whole of the conical rock properly open of Bushby Island, will clear the Fly rock by half a mile to westward.

A shoal off High Island.—The shoal reported three miles N. N. E. of High island (N. E. side of Sullivan's Island or Lampee) was not found; depths of 20 fathoms were obtained everywhere for a mile round the position assigned, and overfalls and tide-rips being numerous North of High Island.

A rock.—This danger, which is situated in the East side of the Forrest's Strait, and dries at low-water spring tides, lies a quarter of a mile North of Canister rock.

Marble rock—Reported to exist 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. N. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. from the northern island of The Gregorys Group, was searched for in vain, although drags were used extensively over the vicinity. A coral patch, with the least depth of one fathom at low-water spring tides, was, however, found 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles N. $\frac{1}{2}$ E. of the northern island of The Gregorys, and which is considered probably to be the same danger.

Boyce shoal.—An unsuccessful search was made for the reported danger stated to lie about 2 miles East of the main body of The Gregorys; the existence of the shoal, therefore, must be considered very doubtful.

Kurrachee rock.—A small pinnacle rock, standing in 16 fathoms, and dries 5 feet at low-water spring tides, lies with the followings bearings and distances:—

Red point (on the mainland)	E. $\frac{1}{2}$ N.,	distant 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles.
Turret Island	S. E. by S.,	„ 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ „
South point of the biggest island of The Gregorys	W. by N. $\frac{1}{2}$ N.,	„	1 $\frac{1}{2}$ „
South island of The Gregorys	S. W. $\frac{1}{2}$ W.,	„ 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ „

Note.—A rock has been placed one mile N. N. E. of the above position, but it does not exist, and should be expunged from the Admiralty charts.

Directions—Western Channel.—The channel West of The Gregorys in Forrest's Strait is not recommended until a larger scale chart is published. Eastern Channel.—Mariners, when proceeding through, should keep in mid-channel between The Gregorys and the main land bearing in mind that Sir Robert Campbell's reef, which lies 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles South of Canister Island, covers at high-water; this track, therefore, leads through in 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms at low-water. It is high-water full and change at 10h. 30m., and the average rise of springs is 13 to 16 feet more than the above depth; and a vessel by keeping in soundings under 10 fathoms at any time of tide will be well clear of the Kurrachee rock.

The bearings are magnetic.

Deputy Conservator of the Port
and Offg. Port Officer of Calcutta.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

[Fourth Publication.]
NOTIFICATION.

The 31st December 1886.—It is hereby notified for general information that in the exercise of the powers conferred on him by section 4 of Act III (B.C.) of 1879 (entitled an Act to provide for the periodical inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah), the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to approve of the following draft of a revised set of rules framed by the Commissioners for the inspection of steam-boilers, unless good reasons are shown to the contrary within one month of the publication of this notification.

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules under Section 4, Act III (B.C.) of 1879, entitled an Act to provide for the Periodical Inspection of Steam-boilers and Prime-movers attached thereto in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah.

I.—The office of the Commissioners for the Inspection of Boilers shall be attached to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

II.—A Boiler Commission shall be appointed to consist of the Commissioner of Police, or the Deputy Commissioner of Police or both, and not less than three other Commissioners to be appointed by Government from time to time; and it shall meet periodically (at least once a month) to arrange for the transaction of business, and one of the Commissioners shall be appointed President.

III.—It shall be the duty of the Commissioners at the monthly meetings—

(1) To examine the diaries of the Inspector and Assistant Inspectors, and pass such orders thereon as may seem necessary.

(2) To revoke or suspend any certificates under section 8.

(3) To hear any appeals preferred by owners of boilers under section 9.

(4) To keep a record of their proceedings in such form as may seem advisable, and submit a copy of the same to the Secretary to Government.

(5) To submit an annual budget to Government, showing the estimates, receipts, and disbursements of the Commission for the ensuing year.

(6) To submit an annual report reviewing the work done by the Boiler establishment during the year.

(7) To prescribe the registers and accounts which are to be kept up by the Secretary and office.

(8) To cause a statement of demands, collections, and outstandings to be prepared by the Secretary, and to scrutinise the same.

(9) To check the statement of demands, comparing the arrear demand with the statement of outstandings for the previous month, and the current demand with a statement of work done, to be prepared by the Secretary from the diaries of the Inspectors.

(10) To compare the statement of collections with the cash-book, and the cash-book with the bank-book.

(11) To pass such orders as they may think fit for realising or otherwise disposing of the outstandings.

IV.—The Commissioners shall from time to time prepare and submit for the sanction of Government a schedule of the establishment and diaries they consider necessary for the purposes of this Act.

V.—After sanction of such schedule, the Commissioners shall have the power to appoint the Inspector, Assistant Inspectors and clerks, &c., and they shall also have power to suspend or remove such officers. The Inspector shall also be Secretary to the Commission, and he shall attend the office and keep such registers and accounts as the Commission may direct under rule III.

VI.—The Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police, which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. He shall see that all notices are duly served, and that all fees are duly brought to account and paid into the Bank. He shall keep in his own custody all forms of certificates, declarations, check receipts, and vouchers. He shall himself verify the balance at credit, shown in the accounts of the Commissioners' office, with the balance in the Bank. He shall refer all matters of importance for the orders of the President.

VII.—Notices under section 6, requiring owners or persons in charge of boilers to make alterations or additions, shall only be given by the Inspector, and when any such notice is given, a copy of the notice served shall at the same time be forwarded by him to each member of the Boiler Commission. When an appeal is heard by the Commission, notice shall be given to the appellant, and any representation that may be made by him will be heard in the presence of the Inspector. The Inspector will also be heard, and local inspection made if necessary. The decision of the Commission will be given in writing, and such decision shall be final.

VIII.—When an inspection under the Act is completed, the Inspector making it shall forthwith, if satisfied that he can with propriety do so, give the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler inspected a declaration in the form appended hereto.

IX.—The owner, manager or agent to whom a declaration is given under the last foregoing section shall, within fourteen days after the date of the receipt thereof, send the declaration, together with the amount of the fee named at foot thereof, to the office of the Commissioner of Police.

If he fails to do so, he shall forfeit a sum not exceeding five rupees for every day beyond that period, and the owner, manager or agent shall pay the sum so forfeited on the delivery of the certificate of inspection in addition to the fee payable for the certificate.

X.—Upon receipt of the declaration in the office of the Commissioner of Police, the Secretary shall prepare a certificate in the form prescribed by the Act. Such certificate shall be signed by the Secretary and the Commissioner of Police or Deputy Commissioner of Police, and shall be delivered to the owner, manager or agent of the steam boilers inspected, on his paying the fees and other sums (if any) payable under rule IX on delivery of a certificate.

XI.—The declaration given shall have the effect of a certificate for 30 days from the date of inspection under rule VIII, but no longer; and unless the fees and other demands are paid and the certificate taken out within that period, the owner, manager or agent shall be liable to all the penalties prescribed in the Act for using an uncertificated boiler. Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

XII.—For every certificate of inspection granted under this Act, the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler inspected shall pay to the Commissioner of Police a fee calculated on the horse-power of the steam boiler according to the scale laid down in rule XVII; and such additional fee, in respect of the expense (if any) of the journey of the Inspector to the place where the boiler is situated, as is prescribed in rule XVIII.

XIII.—A certificate granted under this Act shall not be in force—

(1) After the expiration of one year from the date thereof, or

(2) After the expiration of the period, if less than one year, for which the boiler and machinery have been stated in the certificate to be sufficient, or

(3) After notice has been given by the Commissioners to the owner, manager or agent of the steam boiler to which the certificate relates that they have cancelled or suspended it.

XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—

(a)—A thorough examination once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by the Inspector or Assistant Inspector in person, for which purpose the boilers must be empty, cool, and clean, and flues swept; and, if required by the Inspector, any parts or settings removed for a complete examination of the boiler in every part.

(b)—An ordinary inspection made at any time when the Inspector has reason to believe the boiler is being improperly worked or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

XVI.—The Inspector shall submit to the Commissioners at each meeting his report on every boiler inspected in the form of a diary which shall be recorded in the office.

XVII.—Fees for the delivery of certificates shall be charged according to the following scale:—

	Rs.
Boilers under 10 H.-P. ...	16

XVIII.—In addition to the above fees a charge to cover the travelling expenses of the Inspector will be made in the case of all boilers or prime-movers situated outside the town of Calcutta. The charge for such inspection will be calculated according to the distance from Government House to the place where the boiler is situated and back again, and will be at the rate of six annas a mile by road and two annas a mile by rail.

Note by the Finance Committee on the future Provincial Contract with the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION.—In replying to the Notes of the Finance Committee, some of the Governments have expressed views which, on certain important points, have been found to be inconsistent with the principles regulating the relations of the Imperial and Provincial Governments in respect of the Provincial Contracts. It is desirable therefore, on the eve of a new term of contract, to recapitulate shortly the principles upon which the Government of India has acted in deciding the various questions raised in these papers.

2. The Government of India, while handing over various departments of the administration to the immediate financial control of Local Governments, has uniformly reserved, in its own charge, several departments involving very large expenditure. It is responsible for the whole of the Military Defence of the Empire, including Marine charges and Military Works. It is responsible, except to a limited extent, for meeting the interest upon debt, including the large payments to Guaranteed and other Railway Companies. It is responsible for all Home charges, including the increasing burden of exchange. These and similar burdens not only have to be met out of the receipts of the main Revenue Departments, of which the administration is confided to the various Provincial Governments, but must, in many instances, be considered to have priority of claim over the ordinary charges of Civil Administration. Existing obligations in respect of payment of interest and guaranteed interest must be met before money is considered to be available for any other purpose; and Military Expenditure is in many respects in the same category.

3. The Government of India, therefore, while it continues to be responsible for these charges, cannot give up its prior claims upon the revenues from which they are to be met, and in framing the Provincial Contracts, the Government of India sets apart, for a specified period, only so much of its revenues as it can reasonably expect to spare, to meet the civil expenditure placed under Provincial control. When such a period comes to an end, as the last period will on March 31st 1887, the question first to be considered is, not how much of the revenues, assigned under the last contract, can continue to be usefully spent upon the heads of expenditure controlled by the Provincial Governments, but how much of the general revenues the Government of India, consistently with its obligations, and with the growth of demands upon its resources since the commencement of the period about to expire, can surrender for a further period to the Provincial Governments, in order to enable them to meet whatever expenditure is essential to the conduct of administration.

4. At a time when it is necessary to use every endeavour to reduce expenditure within the limits of the available revenues, Provincial Governments are well aware of the necessity of their taking a due share in the general effort. The Government of India has carefully considered, in connection with the new contracts, the principles which should be adopted, and has consulted with the Local Governments as to the precise arrangements by which effect should be given to those principles in order to impose upon Provincial resources an equitable but not an excessive share of the general burden.

5. On the occasion of the present revision of the Provincial contracts, a Local Government may find itself compelled to surrender a larger share than on the former revision, of the increase which its revenue has received during the period of the contract. It has been the aim of the Government of India to disturb as little as may be arrangements which, during the term of the current contract, have been established, and for which the continued allotment of funds is necessary. But it cannot on that account recognize the claim of Provincial Governments at the close of the contract over revenues which either are, or by reasonable economies, can be made to be, in excess of the expenditure. The fact that the Government of India is and must remain responsible for the financial credit and prosperity of the country may therefore compel it, on a consideration of the whole circumstances in which it is placed, to leave to a Provincial Government at the commencement of a new contract a smaller amount of the increase which has accrued to its revenues during the expiring term, than might otherwise have been assigned to it; and as it is obliged to consider not merely the circumstances of each province taken by itself but the relative claims of all upon the common fund, it cannot undertake to make the demands of each Government the sole standard by which to determine the financial position in which the new contract should place it. Provincial Governments are, however, on the present occasion assured the amount needful to cover all assigned expenditure; and this, it will be remembered, in the earlier phases of the Provincial contract scheme, was not the case. In this direction, therefore, a substantial concession has been made to Provincial Governments, which it is hoped that they will bear in mind. By the exercise of economy and by retrenchment no less than by the normal growth of their revenues, Provincial Governments may in all cases provide themselves during the currency of the ensuing contract with a margin of revenue to be employed in carrying out further projects. The motives for the exercise of that good and economical administration which is one of the chief objects of the contract system will therefore not be impaired by reductions in the existing scale of expenditure. There is nothing in any degree inconsistent with the system of the Provincial contracts in the assertion, at a revision of contracts, of the claims of the Supreme Government, on the ground of its own necessities, over such share of the increased revenues as there are sufficient and good reasons for considering not to be needed for the current administration.

6. The method applied to the calculation of the Provincial assignments may be set forth in the following terms :—

- (a) The revenues, under ordinary circumstances, increase year by year ; part of this increase being spontaneous growth, and part being due to good administration.
- (b) The demands upon Government for expenditure also increase year by year.
- (c) Accordingly, a certain part of the revenues and a certain part of the expenditure are separated off for a time from the general account. An estimate is made of the amount at which these revenues and expenditure stand at their existing stage of growth, (it will be noted that the existing stage of growth forms the basis of the estimate) and the two amounts are so arranged as to balance each other, or to present a moderate excess on the one side or on the other. The condition of the separation is, that all demands for increase over the initial figure of the expenditure side must be met by realization of increases over the initial figure on the revenue side.

It is impossible, in view of such arrangements, to calculate the revenues of the assigned departments at the lowest figure that the Local Governments can, under the most adverse circumstances, receive. The Government of India is also unable to effect an assignment of revenue sufficient, without further development, to assure increases of expenditure contemplated by Provincial Governments, or to grant an initial surplus of assigned revenue over assigned expenditure.

7. The object, therefore, which the Government of India has set before itself has been to make the nearest possible estimate of the standard of revenue and expenditure existing in 1886-87, after testing and comparing it with the figures of previous years, and to make that standard the basis of the assignment. It is true that the standard of 1886-87 is not in every respect an absolutely assured one; there may be some respects in which a future falling off in revenue is expected. So far as these can be foreseen, the Government of India has made allowance for them in making its estimate of the present assignment. On the other hand, of what may be called the general fluctuation of revenue, Provincial Governments must bear their share. The Government of India has, in the event of such a fluctuation, to bear the loss in respect of that share of the revenues which is reserved for the general Imperial expenditure, and it cannot undertake, in addition to its own share of the loss, to make good the share which falls upon the Provincial account. There seems no reason to apprehend any sudden cessation of the general improvement of revenues, and Provincial Governments should take such measures with reference to increase of expenditure that the situation will not be without remedy if, in some respects, the increase of revenue does not come up to their anticipations.

8. But in addition to the ordinary estimating of the existing standard of Revenue and Expenditure, financial necessities have imposed upon the Government of India, on the present occasion of the revision of the contracts, the duty of examining whether the existing scale of expenditure cannot, in some respects, be reduced. Under present circumstances it would be the duty of the Government of India, if it had still the direct responsibility for the civil expenditure of Provincial Governments, to effect such reductions in that expenditure as it found reasonable or expedient; and the Government of India, after full and careful consideration of the recommendations of the Finance Committee and of the replies submitted by the Local Governments, has felt itself compelled to exercise its discretion in judging what economies in the administration may be reasonably and at once effected. In fixing Provincial assignments, it has framed its estimates according to the conclusions thus arrived at.

9. These general remarks upon the method adopted by the Government of India in the consideration of the questions now before it, will explain the Resolutions which are separately recorded on the several points raised by the Provincial Governments. There remain, however, some other questions arising out of the replies of the Provincial Governments on which it may be convenient to record here the views and orders of the Government of India.

10. In some cases increases of assignment have been claimed by Provincial Governments on the ground that they intend in future to undertake certain new expenditure. The Finance Committee have rightly left these proposals out of their calculations. Both revenues and expenditure must be calculated upon the standard of the current year 1886-87, and Local Governments must, for any increases of expenditure in the next and succeeding years' accounts, look to such increased revenue as they can secure under the various heads of revenue.

11. Again, the Finance Committee divided their proposals for economy into two classes. Some economies they considered immediately practicable, and they have taken account of these in their estimates for the contract; others they considered to be either not immediately available or not within the power of the Local Government of its own motion to carry out, and did not reckon in their estimates for the contract. For the purpose of settling the Provincial Contracts, it is not necessary to pass orders regarding any but the first class; but it should not be considered that because an assignment is made which covers expenditure regarding which the Committee have raised the second kind of objection, the economy proposed by the Committee is declared unnecessary or inadvisable. It will be for the Provincial Governments to examine their expenditure in the light of the Finance Committee's remarks. The Provincial Governments are requested to take up each of the Finance Committee's recommendations in this class in turn and to report how far they are prepared to accept them, or on what grounds they disapprove them.

12. The question has been asked whether the benefit of these further economies will accrue to the Provincial Government or to the Imperial Government. It is the desire of the Government of India that in all ordinary cases, or cases which involve the careful readjustment, by the Provincial Government, of the machinery of administration, the Provincial Government should get this benefit; but in those special cases which involve questions of a more general character, or arrangements which are not immediately under Provincial control, such for example, as the possibilities of economy in the High Courts, the Government of India reserves to itself the decision whether the benefit of possible economies shall accrue to the Provincial Government concerned, or to the general exchequer; or in part to both.

13. It has on various occasions, during the currency of the existing contract, been admitted by the Government of India that when considerable expenditure is undertaken by Local Governments to meet its wishes and to carry into execution projects which are pressed upon it by that Government, the claim of Provincial Governments to a contribution, or to an assignment of revenue, to provide according to the circumstances of the case, in part or in whole for the charges consequent on the execution of such projects, will be recognised. That understanding the Government of India will observe; but on the other hand the obligations of Provincial Governments, in the event of severe famine, or abnormal disaster, as provided in paragraphs 6, 7, and 8 of Resolution No. 3353, dated 30th September 1881, will continue to be enforced.

14. Disappointment has, in one instance, been expressed at the result of five years' experience of the provincial system, because it is said to have been found, with regard to restrictions on the action of the Local Government, that little freedom has been gained by the so-called decentralization. No measures of any importance, it has been represented, can be initiated without prior reference to the Government of India. It seems, therefore, desirable to explain that there are necessary limits to decentralization, which are imposed upon the Government of India by the nature of its own relation to the supreme controlling authority, the Secretary of State. The Government of India cannot concede to Local Governments greater powers than it itself possesses; it cannot itself initiate measures of importance without reference to Her Majesty's Government in England, and absolute administrative independence is by no means the object of the Provincial system. The considerations set forth in this Resolution will show how impossible it is for the Government of India to give up altogether its duty of general financial control, so long as the finances of the Supreme and of the several Local Governments have to be administered as parts of a single system.

15. Objection has also been made that Local Governments cannot, without the sanction of the Government of India, sanction the expenditure in any given year of balances to their credit, unless provision has been made in the Budget of that year for such expenditure. It is necessary therefore to observe that, quite independently of any provincial arrangements, there exists the obligation upon the Government of India and upon every Local Government of managing its finances upon the system adopted by Parliament in respect of English Finance, and prescribed for India by the Secretary of State, in respect of Indian finance; a system which is the basis of all finance in India whatever, whether Imperial or Provincial. The following are the orders of the Secretary of State published under date 7th April 1860:—

“Before the commencement of each official year the Supreme Government will require careful estimates to be framed of the anticipated income and the proposed expenditure of the Empire for the coming year. And after considering the various objects to be accomplished in relation to the means and resources for such accomplishment; after comparing the past with the proposed expenditure; after weighing the recommendations of the several Executive Governments and the Heads of Departments, the Supreme Government will allot and appropriate to each branch of the service, and to the several detailed heads within each branch, specific sums. The several Executive Governments and the Departments will be charged with the due application of the sums assigned by the above act of appropriation. The specific amount assigned will on no account be exceeded.”

16. It will be seen from this extract that the Government of India, in laying down the rules prescribed in its Resolution No. 1709, dated 22nd March 1877, and insisting that Provincial Governments should regard proposals for expenditure in the light of their Budget Estimates and without reference to balances which may be at their credit, but for the employment of which during the current year no provision has been made in Provincial Estimates, is not restricting any liberty conceded under the Provincial system, but is merely enforcing a system of financial management to which it is itself expected to conform. The Provincial Governments enjoy, it must be observed, the great advantage of being relieved from all consideration of questions of ways and means. The Government of India undertakes to provide the actual cash required from time to time to meet their drawings for expenditure. But the Government of India has to consider and make its arrangements, at the beginning of each year, with reference to the estimates which it accepts on the proposals of the various local Governments, and it would be impossible to work under a system which allowed Local Governments, at their free will, to set aside their own deliberate scheme of expenditure and to call upon the Central Government, without any notice, to furnish the money required for new and unprovided outlay.

17. His Excellency in Council, in recording the above remarks, is very far removed from the desire to impute to Provincial Governments any backwardness in tendering their assistance on the occasion of the current revision of the Provincial contracts. His Excellency in Council, on the contrary, is extremely desirous to acknowledge the frank and loyal spirit in which those Provincial Governments who in 1886-87 were called upon for contributions-in-aid, and to whom now there has been proposed a considerable reduction in the amount of revenue at their disposal, have responded to the calls made upon them. That the arrangements now concluded have been the cause of so little contention is mainly due, His Excellency in Council gladly acknowledges, to the conciliatory spirit in which the proposals of the Finance Committee having for their object those reductions of revenue have been met by the Provincial Governments immediately concerned. It has been apparent, however, in the course of the proceedings, that misapprehensions have existed in regard to important points connected with the system of Provincial Contracts, and it is desirable that the Local Governments should be reassured upon such points, and that the harmonious working of the contracts during the ensuing five years should thus, as far as possible, be assured. In this view the present Resolution is communicated to Local Governments.

ORDERED that this Resolution be communicated to the several Local Governments and Administrations; to the Comptroller and Auditor General; to the several Accountants General and Comptrollers; and to the Home, Revenue and Agricultural, and Public Works Departments.

ORDERED also, that this Resolution be published in the Gazette of India.
